AVIATORS TO SEEK NEW AIR RECORD

MACREADY AND KELLY HONORED IN SAN DIEGO

Airmen Make Cross County Flight In 26 Hours and 50 Minutes

ATTEMPT NEW FEAT

Will Try to Remain in Air for 48 Hours at Dayton Shortly

San Diego, Calif., May 4.—While the laurels of victory are still green the United States army avaitors, Lieutenants Oakley G. Kelly and John A. MacReady will seek still another world record. This time, it was revealed today, their goal will be a sustained flight of forty-eight hours and it will be attempted shortly at Dayton, Ohio.

Telegrams and even cablegrams from France, Italy and Sweden continued to pour in on the aviators today, congratulating them on their world record flight when yesterday they landed at Rockwell field, California, after a twenty-cix hour non stop flight from Hempstead, N. Y. The official time made by the giant T-2 monoplane was 26 hours, fifty minutes and thirty seconds, the distance approximately 2,600 miles.

The day of triumph for the two aviators was to have culminated last night at a dinner at which several hundred American legion men and prominent citizens of San Diego and United States army and navy officers were gathered.

The guests were present. Lieutenant Kelly showed an hour late, and as embarrassed as a schoolboy with his first long trousers. Lieutenant MacReady did not show up at all and it was whispered about the tables that shyness got the better of him sh rtly before the banquent and that he had started for Los Angeles in an automobile. So Kelly became the hero of the evening all by himself.

San Diego, Cal., May 4.—The world's long distance non-stop flying record was smashed when the giant army monoplane T-2 descended at Rockwell field, San Diego, after traversing the entire distance from New York in one single flight.

The distance of approximately 2,600 miles, as the crow flies, was covered in 26 hours, 50 minutes and 38 seconds actual flying time, at an average speed of approximately 100 miles an hour.

For years aeronautical engineers have dreamed of a sustained flight across the continental United States. Lieutenants John A. MacReady and Oakley G. Kelly, flying the T-2, accomplished the feat.

The T-2 is the plane which has twice broken the world's records, and it also holds the world's lifting record for a single motored airplane. It carries over 700 gallons of gasoline.

"The performance of our liberty motor was perfect in every respect," said Lieutenant Kelly over his coffee at luncheon. "From the time it lifted our overloaded plane from Roosevelt field it throbbed away at racing speed hour after hour with never a falter until we came to earth."

"We never doubted for a moment that we would make the flight a success," said Lieutenant MacReady. "Our eastward effort of last winter in the same plane, you know, was halted because of radiator trouble after we had covered four-fifths of the distance. We were fortunate, of course, in having bright moonlight and sunshine and gentle breezes."

Trouble was experienced in only one respect, it was said. A minor difficulty developed in the battery regulator, but quick work righted the defect and the flight continued on. The two pilots alternated at the controls, each being six hours on duty at a time, they said. The off pilot would crawl back from the high control seat, which is placed far forward, to a reclining position alongside the humming motor, where he might inspect and care for it should occasion arise. Otherwise he was free to eat, smoke or sleep as desired.

Lieutenant Kelly's fiance, Miss Mary Watson, was at the flying field to greet the birdman, and the parents of Lieutenant MacReady were on hand from their home at Los Angeles to welcome their famous flying son.

The aviators appeared physically fresh and in good spirits. A telegram of congratulation was received from President Harding. The aviators were awarded $5,000 by Colonel Franklin R. Kenney, former executive of the air service, who won that amount in a wager on the flight.

KIDNAPED LAD RESTORED TO FAMILY

Verner (Dodo) Alexanderson.

After general alarm had been sent all over the country, by radio, for the apprehension of the man who lured six-year-old Verner ("Dodo") Alexanderson away from his home in Schenectady, New York, by promsing to give him a pair of rabbits. The child was located Thursday in New York state. The boy is the son of E. F. W. Alexanderson, Chief Engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, who had offered a reward of $1,000 for his return. The City of Schenectady, also, offered a similar reward.

COMPLETE COLLAPSE OF CURRENCY OF GERMANY FEARED

Washington, May 4.—Complete collapse of German currency unless depletion of the gold reserve ceases, is regarded as certain in government circles today. With the mark under 25-10,000 of a cent, the latest break having followed rejection of the new reparations offer and withdrawal of approximately 85,000,000 gold marks from the Bank of England, for German government purchase of paper marks, it is anticipated by administration officials that further drawings of the gold reserve will be made in an effort to stabilize the value of paper money.

Eventually, it was pointed out, even if this policy continues, the gold reserve, estimated at about one billion marks, will be exhausted and Germany's paper money become completely valueless, rendering the nation bankrupt. In this case Germany would be forced to repudiate her debts some authorities believe.

HOPE TO CLINCH CASE AGAINST CULT

St. Joseph, Mich., May 4.—The state's case against the House of David and "King" Benjamin Purnill, its leader will be clinched next week by the testimony of several new witnesses, officials conducting the one-man grand Jury investigating, confidentially predicted today.

Testimony of these witnesses will result in the issuing of a bench warrant charging several crimes other than those involving alleged mistreatment of girls, it was declared. One of the secrets of the cult revealed by Mrs. Hazel Wade Wirth, Hammond, Indiana, was the exact relations of the buildings at the House of David.

Columbus, O., May 4.—The State Prohibition Department will await further developments in New Philadelphia, and will allow Mayor E. N. Fair to show whether he can handle the situation there, said Deputy Prohibition Commission F. S. Evans here today, referring to six affidavits charging failure to prosecute prohibition violators, booze parties and joy riders by officials in Governor Donahey's home town.

These affidavits have been filed with State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald. Deputy Commissioner Evans said that the facts had been laid before the mayor and that "it is now up to him."

It is probable that charges will be filed against four police officers within a few days, Evans said.

PORTO RICO MAY BE VISITED BY HARDING

Washington, May 4.—President Harding's forthcoming trip across the continent and to Alaska, starting next month, may be extended to include Porto Rico, it was learned this afternoon. Mr. Harding has under contemplation a water trip from Alaska or Seattle, through the Panama canal to Porto Rico which would require a month's time.

No definite decision has yet been made but Secretary of the Navy Denby informed the president this morning that if he decided to go the navy could place at his disposal the new light cruiser Detroit, recently commissioned and one of the most modern of the navy's light craft. Mr. Harding is loath to stay away from the White House for the length of time necessary to make the trip, it was said. He nevertheless is desirous of visiting Porto Rico to see for himself the conditions there that have led to recent unpleasantness for American administration.

It was also said by his advisers, eliminating some of the ships would help raise the impression that the president is on a campaign tour.

Mr. Harding is extremely anxious to eradicate from the public mind any impressions that he is going on a stumping tour as a candidate for re-election.

KIDNAPED BOY FOUND: HAD NOT BEEN INJURED

Six Year Old Lad Reunited With Parents On Friday

Watertown, N. Y. May 4.—"Hello Mamma."

"Hello Verner."

This commonplace exchange of greetings, reminiscent of O. Henry and his commentary of what folks say in times of stress, marked the reunion today of Verner Alexanderson, kidnaped son of the noter Schenectardy radio engineer, and his mother, who rushed to this city by private car to claim the child who had been stolen from her three days ago.

The reunion—made doubly strange by the self assurance of the stolen child—took place at the Jefferson County Jail, where the boy, rescued from a riverside cottage at Thersesa, where he had been held captive, had spent the night.

In the meanwhile, police are searching for two men believed to be the kidnapers. Three women are under arrest as accomplice—witnesses and detectives are following clues furnished by them to apprehend the principals.

"Dodo" was found by Under Sheriff Frederick Jackson of Jefferson county in a small house on the outskirts of the town of Teresa, 35 miles north of Watertown. The boy's father is chief engineer of the radio corporation of America and consulting engineer of the General Electric company.

Telling the story of the boy's recovery, Jackson said: "Verner is alive and well. He was not treated badly, and so far as I know never knew that he was in danger. We learned of his whereabouts from Frederick E. Jarvis, owner of a cottage on a little lake, three miles back of the town of Theresa. Jarvis had been approached last week by a man who wanted to rent the cottage. He was curious, and today went to see who his tenants were. Approaching the house it seemed deserted at first, but after he had entered the room he saw, huddled in some blankets on an old bed a little boy, who proved to be the kidnaped child. Mrs. Grennell then came from another room and told Jarvis she had been hired to take care of the boy. I feel sure she was not involved in the plot."

ANOTHER NON-STOP FLIGHT PLANNED.

TRIAL OF GERMANS CHARGED BY FRENCH OPENS ON FRIDAY

Hearing Takes Place Amidst a War-Like Setting

Werden, Occupied Germany, May 4.—Amidst a warlike setting, emphasized by tanks, machine guns, military lorries and soldiers with bayonetted rifles, the trial of Herr Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen and Halbach and three directors of the Krupp works at Essen, began today before a French courtmartial. They are charged with instigating disorders and arousing German hostility against the French.

Herr Krupp Von Bohlen is the head of the Krupp works and the husband of Bertha Krupp, whose father founded the industry. The directors are Herr Bruhen, Herr Hartwig and Herr Oesterlein.

The specific accusation is violation of decree number 22, issued by General DeGoutte, commander in chief of the Frensh army of occupation, which forbids complicity and other machinations in secret agreement against order and safety of the occupational forces.

Freud produced phantom faces and hands, ghostly music and spirit photographs, after the most approved manner of spiritualists, and then showed his audience the very mundane methods used in producing such phenomonae.

FORMER NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY STUDENT SOUGHT BY THE POLICE

Veiled Accusation Against Allen Mills Reported to Be In California is Made By His Room-mate.

Chicago, May. 4.—The inquest into the death of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, whose skeleton was found under a lake pier Monday, after his disappearance in September 1921, was continued this afternoon when the coroner announced that he wishes to make an independent investigation.

Miss Doris Fuchs of whom Mount was enamored, is to be among the first witnesses called before the Grand Jury when it takes up the inquiry next week.

Chicago, May 4.—Following an all-night questioning of a score of Northwestern University students, in the inquiry into the death of Leighton Mount, 18, freshman, who disappeared during the class rush in September 1921 and whose body was found Monday under a pier at Evanston, the state's attorney's office today is seeking Allen Mills, a former student now reported to be in a California prison.

A veiled accusation against Mills by Will McIlwain, his former roommate, gave a tangible clue. McIlwain declared Mills returned to his rooms dripping wet on the night of the class fight and semed worried.

The news of Mount's disappearance, according to McIlwain, semed to increase Mills' distraction, and he often asked about Mount.

John Scott, son of President Walter Dill Scott, and Fred Scott, nephew of President Scott, were among the students who were questioned. Both declared they had only a very small part in the class skirmishes.

One of the sensations of the inquiry was the calling of Axel Lonquest, rich contractor and recent father-in-law of Fred Scott, who declared when he sought the annulment of his daughter's marriage to young Scott, that, if he told what he knew of the youth, that it would create a sensation.

Officers are alsor seeking Arthu Persinger, another student victim of the class rush, who was reported to have been tied in a precarious position to a lake pier and hope to obtain valuable testimony from it. It developed today that Mount's body was literally buried "in the shadow of the cross."

Rising above the pier where the body was found was a wooden cross—a symbol of hope and life—that had been erected there for a life preserver support, a grim joke on the part of those who buried the body.

Forty more students have been summoned for questioning at the state's attorney's office today, while at the same time Coroner Wolff took up his independent inquiry at Evanston.

A subpoena was issued today for Miss Audrey Lonnquist, former wife of Fred Scott, nephew of Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University. Her short lived romance of last January terminated in an annulment at the behest of her parents. She was a student of the University last year. What the state's attorneys office hoped to learn from her was not divulged.

FRENCH ANSWER TO GERMANY IS FLAT REJECTION

Reply Does Not Contain Counter Reparations Proposal

Paris, May 4.—France's reply to the reparations offer of 30,000,000,000 marks by Germany is a flat rejection and does not contain any counter proposals for a basis of future negotiations, it was learned today from an authoritive source. According to newspapers with inside sources of information, the French communication rejects the German proposals point by point.

Lord Crew, the British ambassador, called upon Premier Poincare and told him that, while England approves of France's rejection, the British must insist that France engage in general conversation on the reparations issue.

The British believe Germany may be led to make a better offer later on if France and Belgian will consent to negotiation now.

French foreign officials were engaged today in putting the final touches upon the French reply.

The contents already have been communicated to Belgium. It is likely copies will be transmitted to the other allies tonight and that it will be forwarded to Berlin tomorrow.

Announcement was made at the foreign office this afternoon, that while France and Belgian are in complete accord, they will reply separately to the German offer instead of sending a joint note. It is understood the text to the German offer instead of sending a joint note. It is understood the text of both communications will be virtually similar.

Cologne, May 4.—The French military authorities, straining every nerve to wear down the resistance of the inhabitants of the Ruhr, are daily issuing fresh series of orders against the so-called "passive resisters."

Two new orders were promulgated at Essen. The first declares that all who do not obey the orders of the central commission to deliver coal, coke or any other material within five days are liable to prison for five years and a fine of not less than ten million marks. The penalties also apply to persons hindering the carrying out of the orders of the commission. The second order forbids the publication of any newspaper or periodical without the permission of the French.

The trial of Herr Krupp Von Behlon and the other directors of the Krupp works opened today before a French military court. A charge of conspiracy has been preferred against 10 members of the firm, five of whom were absent at the time of the disturbance on March 31.

PRESIDENT WILL URGES STATES' AID

Washington, May 4.—If the 48 states will join with the federal government in enforcing the laws as written on the statute books President Harding believes the illicit liquor traffic can be decreased by half, and in the end brought absolute control.

START MOVEMENT TO PRESERVE PLAN WHICH MAKES TRIP

San Diego, California, May 4.—A movement to preserve the giant plane in which MacReady and Kelly, aviators made their epochal flight was started today by members of the American Legion when it was reported the ship made its last flight and would be scrapped.

The legion will request the war department to donate the plane to the war exhibit at Balboa Park, San Diego

San Diego friends of Lieutenant MacReady are telling a story of persistency which has won him world fame. MacReady, according to the story, was a student aviator at Rockwell Field in 1916, but seemed unable to qualify as a solo flyer.

After repeated attempts with no better success he faced discharge from the service. Then, one day, he confided to friends as he went up that he was going to conquer the machine or it would conquer him. It was on that flight he qualified. And it was on the same field where he was on the verge of failure that he was handed a telegram from the president of the United States, reading:

"Accept my most cordial congratulations on the success of your record making non-stopped coast to coast successfully completed today.

"Warren Harding."

Another telegram addressed to both fliers as individuals was from General Patrick, chief of the United States Army Air Service. It read:

"Colonel Franklin Kennedy, former executive in the service, wins five thousand on your flight a lot of which he tenders you with his compliments. Wire acceptance immediately Plaza hotel."

The following answer was sent:

"Accept with pleasure if it is not a dream. You know us lieutenants."

"Now I can take that extended leave of absence I've wanted so long," declared Kelly gleefully to Major Arnold, as he read the telegram on the field.

"Anytime you want it," said the major, with a smile, and handed the telegram to Miss Watson, who stood nearby.

WOMAN SHOT.

Cambridge, O., May 4.—Fred White, 34, of Columbus, was arrested here and held for the grand jury in the sum of $2,000, charged with shooting with intent to kill. White is alleged to have shot Mrs. Riley Lightly three times, the bullets striking her in the legs. Mrs. Lightly is in a hospital.

SCIENTIFIC WORK IS BEING DONE BY PROF. MOOREHEAD

Professor Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the department of archeology of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., who has been engaged in archeological investigation of the Cahokia Mounds, near East St. Louis, under the auspices of the University of Illinois, was the guest of his aunt, Miss Emma King, East Main street, Wednesday night.

Professor Moorehead is returning from two months work directing the excavation of the mounds, which he started last year, and which has resulted in a number of the smaller mounds being opened. The archeological party has contented itself with opening most of the smaller mounds but the larger ones thought to contain many valuable relics, will be excavated when the party resumes operations next year.

The Cahokia Mounds are the remains of the largest prehistoric city in the United States, according to W. E. Myer, archeologist, writing for "Science Service." The article reads in part: Unless action is soon taken to preserve these great mounds, he said, the rapid spread of modern factories in the outskirts of this important manufacturing Illinois city may completely efface the ruins of this ancient Indion metroplis, which exceeds in size any other city occupied by prehistoric man in the United States.

"The University of Illinois and also a large number of prominent men throughout Illinois and the adjoining states are very much alive to the importance of having an experienced archeologist like Professor Moorehead to explore carefully and study these great mounds. There is now a bill before the Illinois legislature to appropriate sufficient money to purchase the site of this ancient city and to set it aside as a state park for the pleasure and education of our people forever. They feel that to allow these great mounds to be destroyed would be almost a crime against future generations.

"There are eighty mounds in this great Cahokia group, scattered over an area of about two thousand acres; but the extreme limits of this old city are still unknown. The largest of these mounds, known as the Cahokia Mound, is by far the largest ever raised by prehistoric races within the boundaries of what is now the United States. This mound is about 998 feet long, 710 feet wide and rise above the surrounding country to a height of over 90 feet.

"These vast earthworks probably at one time contained on their summits temples and chiefs' houses and other important structures.

"No accurate estimate can as yet be made as to the date when the mounds were erected or the number of people required to build them. Some of the smaller mounds in this group may possibly be burial mounds, as modern Indians have been known to raise mounds over the bodies of some of their powerful chiefs or over large numbers of their less important dead.

"Several years will be required to complete the exploration of these ruins. Although they have been known to white men for over two hundred years, there has been little intensive exploration of them until the University of Illinois expedition under Professor Moorehead began work in 1921. It is hoped that this expedition, which is now in the field, will unearth sufficient evidence to enable them to determine what ancient Indian tribe erected these great mounds and lived in this large city.

"The builders of these mounds were not a separate race, Mr. Myer added, but were our ancient American Indians. These mounds have been called the Cahokia group because the Cahokias, a small tribe of a few hundred Indians, were found living in the vicinity when the first white explorers came into the region. The Cahokia Indians did not live upon these mounds. They did not and could not have build the anvient city. The Cahokias stated that they found these great ruins of a vanished tribe lying silent and deserted when they first came into the region. No one could tell them who built them or when or why the vast population perished or departed."

CONFER ON WAY TO FINANCE SCHOOL

President Jack O'Bryant, Frank Charles, Howard Miller, and Charles Cline, members of the Board of Education of Jeffersonville Township, at Bowersville, were in Xenia Friday morning conferring with County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman, and Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, in regard to the possibility and feasibility of employing teachers, and drivers, and incurring other necessary expenses, for the Bowersville Centralized School for the coming year.

Members of the Board reported that after the debts for the present year and other running expenses, are paid, that the money in the school treasury will be depleted by September 1. The Board is consequently unwilling to make contracts for the coming year, until more support has been pledged. The Educational Board is considering the advisability of funding the present indebtedness, and securing means to run the school until the November election, although no definite plan was decided upon, at the meeting Friday.

As it now stands, according to County Superintendent of Schools Aultman, the future of the centralized school at Bowersville will largely depend on the resut of the election in November, when a levy will be decided upon.

TEXAS SHIEK OPEN FOR REFINED BRIDE

Baltimore, Mdr., April 18.—Is there a girl in Philadelphia, New York or some other Eastern city near the seat of culture, which is Baltimore who would like to marry a Texas sheik?

If so all she has to do is to write H. P. Reynolds, of Sugarland, Texas, but she had better hurry because indications are that Reynolds will be deluged with offers to marry.

Reynolds, from way down in Sugarland, has appealed to Balitimore police to find him a wife. She must be from the East, he says, "from or near Baltimere". And he wants a "young lady between the ages of 18 and 30," his objections to a widow being nil.

Here is how he describes himself: "I am 24 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 155 pounds. I have blue eyes, brown wavy hair and am considered a good fellow. And last, but least, I possess some means."

She said the license and marriage constituted a mystery to her.

Tresa alleged, further, that John shipped her trunk to Lorain and kept it. About $400 worth of clothes were in the trunk she said.

Professor Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the department of archeology of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., who has been engaged in archeological investigation of the Cahokia Mounds, near East St. Louis, under the auspices of the University of Illinois, was the guest of his aunt, Miss Emma King, East Main street, Wednesday night.

Professor Moorehead is returning from two months work directing the excavation of the mounds, which he started last year, and which has resulted in a number of the smaller mounds being opened. The archeological party has contented itself with opening most of the smaller mounds but the larger ones thought to contain many valuable relics, will be excavated when the party resumes operations next year.

The Cahokia Mounds are the remains of the largest prehistoric city in the United States, according to W. E. Myer, archeologist, writing for "Science Service." The article reads in part: Unless action is soon taken to preserve these great mounds, he said, the rapid spread of modern factories in the outskirts of this important manufacturing Illinois city may completely efface the ruins of this ancient Indion metroplis, which exceeds in size any other city occupied by prehistoric man in the United States.

"The University of Illinois and also a large number of prominent men throughout Illinois and the adjoining states are very much alive to the importance of having an experienced archeologist like Professor Moorehead to explore carefully and study these great mounds. There is now a bill before the Illinois legislature to appropriate sufficient money to purchase the site of this ancient city and to set it aside as a state park for the pleasure and education of our people forever. They feel that to allow these great mounds to be destroyed would be almost a crime against future generations.

"There are eighty mounds in this great Cahokia group, scattered over an area of about two thousand acres; but the extreme limits of this old city are still unknown. The largest of these mounds, known as the Cahokia Mound, is by far the largest ever raised by prehistoric races within the boundaries of what is now the United States. This mound is about 998 feet long, 710 feet wide and rise above the surrounding country to a height of over 90 feet.

"No accurate estimate can as yet be made as to the date when the mounds were erected or the number of people required to build them. Some of the smaller mounds in this group may possibly be burial mounds, as modern Indians have been known to raise mounds over the bodies of some of their powerful chiefs or over large numbers of their less important dead.

"Several years will be required to complete the exploration of these ruins. Although they have been known to white men for over two hundred years, there has been little intensive exploration of them until the University of Illinois expedition under Professor Moorehead began work in 1921. It is hoped that this expedition, which is now in the field, will unearth sufficient evidence to enable them to determine what ancient Indian tribe erected these great mounds and lived in this large city.

"The builders of these mounds were not a separate race, Mr. Myer added, but were our ancient American Indians. These mounds have been called the Cahokia group because the Cahokias, a small tribe of a few hundred Indians, were found living in the vicinity when the first white explorers came into the region. The Cahokia Indians did not live upon these mounds. They did not, and could not have build the anvient city. The Cahokias stated that they found these great ruins of a vanished tribe lying silent and deserted when they first came into the region. No one could tell them who built them or when or why the vast population perished or departed."

TEXAS SHIEK OPEN FOR REFINED BRIDE

Baltimore, Mdr., April 18.—Is there a girl in Philadelphia, New York or some other Eastern city near the seat of culture, which is Baltimore who would like to marry a Texas sheik?

Reynolds, from way down in Sugarland, has appealed to Balitimore police to find him a wife. She must be from the East, he says, "from or near Baltimere". And he wants a "young lady between the ages of 18 and 30," his objections to a widow being nil.

Here is how he describes himself: "I am 24 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 155 pounds. I have blue eyes, brown wavy hair and am considered a good fellow. And last, but least, I possess some means."

THE SUPREME COURT OVERRULES ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY.

The Supreme Court has decided that John Barleycorn may hail an American ship outside the three-mile figure, obtain passage and reign again in the smoke room as the merry teller of tales and seller of pools on the day's run. He may take aboard all his old playmates of the steward's shelf, but he cannot bring them —legally—into the territorial waters of the United States, even on a foreign vessel. Veritably, he must be an old man of the sea.

For the Supreme Court ruled that Attorney General Daugherty was all wrong when he said the prohibition against the sale and transportation of intoxicating beverages followed the flag anywhere on the high seas. It follows only to the three-mile limit, but inside that territorial precinct no ship, American or foreign, may convey alcoholic liquors in any form. In that Mr. Daugherty was right.

The effect of the court's order is to test the ingenuity of American and foreign ships with respect to disposing of unsold prohibited liquors on inbound voyages and of taking them aboard on the outward trips. It leaves to Secretary Hughes the troubles of pacifying the diplomatic representatives of France, Italy and Portugal whose nationals are guaranteed liquors with their meals when signing up on the vessels of these countries.

The Supreme Court tosses onto President Harding's desk a question of policy that is not the most pleasant he could have there. The law says it is all right to sell liquors somewhat stronger than 1 per cent of alcohol. Privately owned American ships may do as they please about it, but the President must determine as a matter of policy whether he will permit such sale aboard Government-owned vessels.

CHESTER PROJECT SIGNED AT ANGORA.

A convention putting into effect the railway development and mining concessions granted by the Turkish Government to the American syndicate headed by Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, retired, was signed Monday at Angora. The Turkish Minister of Public Works affixed his signature for the Government and Clayton Kennedy for the promoting corporation.

Commander Arthur T. Chester, retired, a son of Rear Admiral Chester, also signed the document on behalf of the American syndicate.

Announcement of ratification by the Turkish Nationalist Assembly of the Chester railway and mining convention was made at Angora on April 10. Intense interest was aroused by the announcement that an American enterprise had been successful in obtaining development rights of such magnitude.

Opposition to anything in the grant that might conflict with the rights of the nations of other countries which had made commercial or development agreements with the Turks has been strongly in evidence since, notably from French and British quarters, and the subject of the concessions has been already a topic of considerable informal discussion at the renewed Lausanne Near East Peace Conference.

While the agency message from Constantinople gives no details, it seems probable that the agreement between the Turkish Government and the Chester syndicate has been put in final and formal terms.

BEING A BOY.

One of the best things about the Boy Scout movement is that it makes clear to young boys, and old ones as well, that the business of being a boy means being a good son and brother as well as a good citizen.

That boys will be boys was once taken to mean that, if the youth of the race run wild or are destructive, that is but what we must expect from those who, according to Aristotle, are the hardest of all wild beasts to tame. The modern lad has every encouragement to learn that politeness, truthfulness, fidelity to duty and other qualities of the sort are perfectly compatible with the joy of living and the natural freedom of childhood. Being a boy need not mean boorish unmannerliness, and consideration for the rights of others is entirely compatible with the juvenile notion of a good time.

The man who most vividly remembers his boyhood is he who keeps youngest, and the best way to recapture youth is to be friends with the youthful. If, as Wordsworth tells us, the boy is father to the man, let the man reciprocate and sympathize, and let son or nephew know that he understands the perplexing trail; that he went over the same ground, and through the same dark forests years ago. Boy Week is a good time not merely for the boy to celebrate, but for the man to reaffirm his faith in what he beheld in the sunrise of his own life.

BEAUTY CHATS

MANICURE SCISSORS

One of the most useful implements invented is the little pair of manicure scissors which every women possesses. Its much too useful, for it tempts one to keep the edges of the nails smooth by cutting away the little pieces of skin that collect and grown down over the nail. It's so much easier to cut off this skin than to keep it pressed back gently into place for it is cut smoothly the nails look well for abot a week and need not be touched, whereas the orange-wood stick must be used once or twice a day to keep them nice looking otherwise.

The various cuticle removers on the market are a boom to the women who cannot afford the time or expense of a professional manicurist. These remove the dead skin from the nail and in most cases give a smooth finish without any further trouble. However, great care must be taken, for these, which are only diluted oxalic acid, are very drying, and in the end will make this tender skin rough and dry. Whenever a cuticle remover is used, the fingers should be scrubbed thoroughly with warm water, soap and a small brush after the dead skin has been scraped away. Then a little cream should be rubbed thoroughly into the nails and around them and allowed to stay on several minutes.

There are times, of course, when manicure scissors must be used, even the cuticle remover will leave jagged ends, and it will never get out the odd bits of skin that collect on each side of the nail in those little corners where the nail grows out of the flesh. But do not overdo the manicure scissors habit. Cuticle, cut too often, will grow tough and unsightly.

The chief thing to remember in taking care of the nails is to feed them well with oil or cold cream and to push back the cuticle each time after the hands are washed.

Today's Talk

I like to be missed—and I like to miss those I love. Because then I know that I have given out something and in return I have received something.

And when I lie down at night and think during the last few minutes before I am lost in sleep, and can recall things I have done, or something I have said that has made someone else happier, then I know that my life has not been lived in vain.

It's a good thing to keep testing your life to see if it is measuring up.

I see that my car is kept in smooth running order. I have it inspected regularly. For I use it daily to take me back and forth from work and to give pleasure to others. I see no reason why this life of our should not receive as good attention.

What an inspiring thing an active, thoughtful, helpful, useful life is!

If we keeping test out our abilities and talents, we come to know just how strong we are, but that is not all. As we find out that we are strong, we learn that we can become stronger. That is the wonderful fact about life.

If a man does not put himself to a thorough test every day, how is he going to know how strong he is? And if he doesn't know how to walk past Failure, how is he to face Success?

Keep testing your life. Keep learning new things about it. Find out exactly just what you are able to make out of it.

What a thrilling thing to go mining into one's very self for the gold of ability that lies hidden within us all.

We never know how far we are able to go in the world with what we have until we have learned through repeated tests.

Knowledge increases knowledge!

THREE ADDRESSES FEATURE W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE THURSDAY

Three addresses, and a complete outline of work, featured the County Institute of the Greene County W. C. T. U. during three session, at the Presbyterian Church at Yellow Springs, Thursday. The principal speakers were Mrs. Viola D. Romans, state vice president of the W. C. T. U., Senator S. D. Fess, of Yellow Springs and Dean Phillip C. Nash, of Antioch College. Other speakers during the day included Mrs. Carrie Flatter, county president of the W. C. T. U. and professor H. C. Aultman, county superintendent of schools.

The morning program of the institute was devoted to plans of work in the various departments, with special stress laid on membership. The county organization will make an effort to double the enrollment, by the plan of every woman in the Union securing at least one new member, the one who secures 50 new members, to have her expenses paid to the State and National W. C. T. U. Convention, at Columbus in September. During the discussion Mrs. Walter L. Dean, outlined the progress of the Christian Citizenship Department in the county organization, while Mrs. Romans told of the work in the state.

The standard of the school work in Greene County, and the importance of the relation of the parents and teachers, were stressed by County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman, in his address.

W. C. T. U. workers were urged not to rest on their laurels, in the prohibition fight, by Mrs. Romans who declared that the fight had only begun. The woman were urged to look to the election of good candidates during the coming election, which will be the worst in the country's history, between the wets and drys, according to the speaker. Mrs. Romans spoke of the necessity of scientific temperance instruction and the effect of narcotics in the public schools.

Mrs. Flatter, county president, gave an interesting talk on "Why the Cigarette Campaign," dwelling on different research work, that showed the effect of narcotic and liquor, on the human body.

A tribute to women, was paid by Dean Nash of Antioch, in his statement that woman is a born executive, and is given initiative to carry out her plan of work, in his compliment to the success of the W. C. T. U. workers, Dean Nash gave a detailed account of the co-operative plan of education being followed at Antioch, describing the system of budgeting of the pupils' allowance, and the specializing in the various departments of work.

Prospects are for an enrollment of 500 at Antioch during next year's term, are seen according to Dean Nash. Plans are being made by alumni of the school to erect a dormitory at the college, he said.

Following the afternoon and evening session, banquets were served, toasts interspersing the program at the evening hour. The following responded, Professor Aultman, "Learning," the Rev. Mr. Coleman, "Law Enforcement," Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass "Health," and Mrs. A. W. Jamieson, "Suffrage."

Dr. Fess discussed the Volstead law, in his address, paying a tribute to Roy Haynes, National Prohibition Enforcement official. He said that the only change he would make in the 18th amendment would be that of strengthening it. Speaking of the three-mile limit, for ships carrying liquor, Senator Fess said that in his opinion, wherever the American flag floated, was American soil. He said that Ohio is leading other states of the union, in the law enforcement.

The following resolutions were adopted during the institute session: First; "We should begin now to look up candidates that will be before us this fall, that those selected may be persons capable, conscientious, and courageous. Second, We place ourselves on record as favoring the placing of women on our schoolboards. Third, That we double our present membership before the state and national convention by each member securing at least one new member. Fourth, to urge specific action against the use of cigarette, and the enforcement of all narcotic laws. Fifth, We protest against any ship carrying any intoxicating liquor, that floats the United States flag. Sixth, That we co-operate with all agencies for Child Welfare, and urge that scientific temperance instruction be continued in the curriculum of our schools Seventh. We favor the daily reading of selections from the Bible, in public schools, and also the endorsement of a vocational Bible School.

Music during the day included a solo by Mrs. Raymond Wolf, and Mrs. Swinnerton, with Mrs. Frank Watkin, at piano.

The month of May is scheduled as membership month, on the state calendar of the W. C. T. U.

ALLEGED WINK CAUSES JUDGE TO GRILL JUROR

Missoula, Mont., May 4.—Winks are mischievous little things but often lead to mnor troubles, but when passed between a juror and defendant in a court room it seems they at once take on a serious and significant character. At least that may be inferred from the reprimand given Juror Leighton Stewart by Judge Theodore Lentz in District Court here after Stewart had been accused of winking at Sam Mercer on trial for the alleged sale of intoxicating liquor. Later the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Mercer was arrested when a resort was raided by city and county authorities. The mysterious disappearance of two Fort Missoula soldiers, material witnesses in the case, proved a serious handicap to the prosecution. The defense was able to establish an alibi for Mercer, witnesses testifying that he was at the fort at the time of the raid.

As the jury filed out of the courtroom, former Sheriff George A. Cole leaped to his feet, rushed to the judge's bench and cried, in a loud voice:

JURY CALLED BACK

"Hold the jury Judge, hold the jury! That man winked at Sam Mercer as he passed out!"

Instantly the courtroom was in an uproar. Judge Lentz rose to his feet and demanded:

"Who was it winked?"

"There's the juror!" shouted the former sheriff, leveling an accusing finger at Stewart.

"Call the jury back!" commanded the Court.

When the panel had been seated defense counsel registered a protest against the charge and the calling back of the jury, claiming that it was out of line with the usual court procedure. Judge Lentz firmly waved aside the protest, demanding of Cole his evidence on the winking charge.

"This man saw him wink at Mercer!" declared the ex-sheriff.

He brought forward W. A. Fredericks, a Federal operative, who corroborated Cole's statement.

"What was the juror?' demanded the Court.

Cole again pointed at Stewart.

"Did you see that juror wink at the defendant?" questioned the Court.

"I did," replied Fredericks.

"Take the stand and be sworn," ordered the judge.

On his oath the Federal man testified that he had seen Stewart drop out of the jury line, lean toward the defendant and slowly drop an eyelid.

JURYMAN DENIES IT

The Court then summoned Juror Stewart to th stand. Under oath he swore that he did not wink at Mercer; that involuntarily he might have batted an eye as he passed out of the courtroom.

Judge Lentz deliberated over the unusual charge for some time before giving his decision.

It was quiet in the courtroom, very quiet, when he explained, after asking if anyone else in the courtroom had witnessed the alleged wink, that it was a case of one man's word against another, advising the jurors to disregard the incident and to discharge their official duty as if it had not occurred.

The Court reprimanded Juror Stewart, saying: Had I seen you wink at the defendant you would not be sitting on this jury now, for I would have found a way to take care of vuo. That is an act of contempt not to be overlooked by this Court, and it would have been within my province to punish you severely."

GARDEN CLUB WILL BEAUTIFY BRIDGES MEMBERS DECIDE

The first meeting of The Xenia Garden Club was held Thursday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles Kelble on West Church St. and the new organization reports forty paid members. Miss Kate Schweibold was elected secretary of the organization.

The group of enthusiastic workers presented at the meeting perfected plans for the beautifying of the bridges about the city by the use of flower boxes. Superintendent Barver of the O. S. and S. O. Home has offered to contribute the flowers and the boxes will be bought with club funds.

Mrs. Marshall Wolf is chairman of the committee to attend to the matter of securing and placing the boxes.

Neatly printed signs bearing the flower slogan, "Xenia grows Zinnias," will be placed at the approaches to the city.

The club members are paying special attention to beautiying the unsightly spots about the city and any one knowing of such places is asked to report them to the club. The club has already planted six flower beds about the old dump on Xenia Avenue and Castor Beans have been planted to serve as a screen for the dump. Similar work will be done on all the ugly and neglected sites about the city.

Another meeting of the club will be held next week, the time and place to be announced later, and it is hoped that by that time at least one hundred persons will be enrolled.

It is the desire of the club to have practically all of the residents of city as members. The dues are 25c a year and members have the advantage of wholesale rates when buying seeds.

LABOR DEARTH IN U. S. MIGHT -- HELP ENGLAND

London, May 4.—America's labor shortage may prove a part solution of England's unemployment problem.

The British government is investigating labor conditions in the United States, particularly with regard to a shortage of skilled labor, Sir Montague but the Ministry of Labor informed International News Service. It is not likely that the British government will take any official action to encourage England's unemployed to migrate to the United States but the Minister of Labor undoubtedly will make known the results of is inquiries to those who may be interested and who see emigration as the solution of their problem.

SCHWAB OFFERS SOLUTION

When Charles Schwab was in London recently he said that he was greatly impressed by the pitiful conditions brought about by unemployment and he suggested that the United States and its industries undoubtedly could absorb a portion of the unemployed of England. The steel magnate stated that in his own industries there was an appreciable shortage of skilled labor and he felt that some of England's unemployed might find work if they were able to finance the trip to the United States.

While the number of unemployed in England fluctuates from month to month it has remained sufficiently near to the two-million mark to convince many experts that there can be no solution of the problem unless there is a more even distribution of the population. Either the people must leave the city centers and go to the country districts or to the colonies, or there must be continual unemployment. With this in mind the government has taken many steps to equalize distribution of populaton.

WON'T GO TO THE COUNTRY

Efforts to hire city dwellers for country and suburban employment have not been very successful for the city dwellers are uninclined to leave their city homes and the surroundings to which they have become accustomed today.

A similar fate was met by efforts to induce emigration to the colonies. While the Government puts up a loud cry that the colonies are in need of settlers the emigration to the colonies has been very small.

Negotiations are now in progress between the British Ministry of Labor and the French Minister of Devastated Areas in an effort to obtain work in the rebuilding of the devastated areas for unemployed British workmen. The success of these negotiations is still in doubt.

LABOR UNIONS OBJECT

Efforts which the Government has made to produce a more even distribution of labor have been somewhat hampered by the attitude of labor organizations, some of which maintain that there is no necessity for emigration if conditions in England are restored to normal.

The British emigration to the United States has been comparatively light this year, and on March 1 England was still nearly 30,000 below her permissible quota under the immigration laws.

It appears that the 'tight little isle" is still home to the English workingman, whether he is employed or not, and if he can't get employment in England he would rather suffer discomforts than to migrate—and particularly to a "dry" land."

Unemployment for years to come seems to be a certainty facing England.

PIT "OLD TIME" PUPIL AGAINST "MODERN" KIND

Sacramento, May 4.—Governor Richardson's theory that California's modern institutions of learning have failed to maintain the record established by the little red school houses of two decades ago is to be put to the test.

Instead of contenting himself with a denial of the Governor's charge against the modern school, Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, seeks to prove its falsity by a contest between students of the old and new schools.

Fifteen of California's leading business men, disciples of the 'old school' are to be pitted against an equal number of high school seniors, representatives of the new mode of education. If Governor Richardson covets the $100 prize which will go to the winner of the contest he is eligble and welcome, says Wood.

Here is Wood's announcement of the contest:

"Through the courtesy of an anonymous donor I am authorized to arrange for one of the most interesting contests in the history of the State. A prize of $100 is offered to the winner in this contest of the young against the middle-aged people of California in reading, writing, spelling and the use of English. Any community in California having a population of 15,000 or more is eligible to enter the contest. If more than one community applies selection will be by lot.

PICK LEADING CITIZENS

"Following is the plan of the contest:

"The names of all members of the Chamber of Commerce of community who are forty years of age or over and who got their education in American public schools over twenty-five years ago are to be written on slips of paper and put in a box. From the box the names of fifteen members are to be drawn. The men whose names are drawn will represent the Chamber of Commerce in the contest.

"In a similar manner the names of fifteen prospective graduates of the community high school are to be selected by lot.

"Not more than two minutes before the contest begins the president of the Chamber of Comerce and the high school principal are to select a page from Emerson's Essays to be dictated to the contestants. The contestants are to write what is dictated, paying careful attention to spelling, sentence arrangement, paragraphig. capitalization and punctuation. The paprs to be scored by professors of English at the University of California and Stanford University.

WINNER TO GET PRIZE

"The winner of the contest is to receive the prize offered.

"I have chosen the Chamber of Commerce for the contest because this body presumably represents the more successful member sof the community. I have limited the contest to men forty years of age or better because I want the adult contestants to represent the old-time teaching which we are told, "stressed the fundamentals." The representatives of the Chamber of Commerce cannot send their stenographers as proxies in the contest.

"We have heard a great deal about the success of the old-time teaching and the failure of the new. What is needed is a clear demonstration of the facts. Of course, the older folks will have the advantage of years. Presumably they have learned something since they left school. However, we shall waive that question and give them the advantage of their years. May the better team win!

Wood also plans a contest in reading between the "old-timers" and children in the sixth grade. The contests will be public.

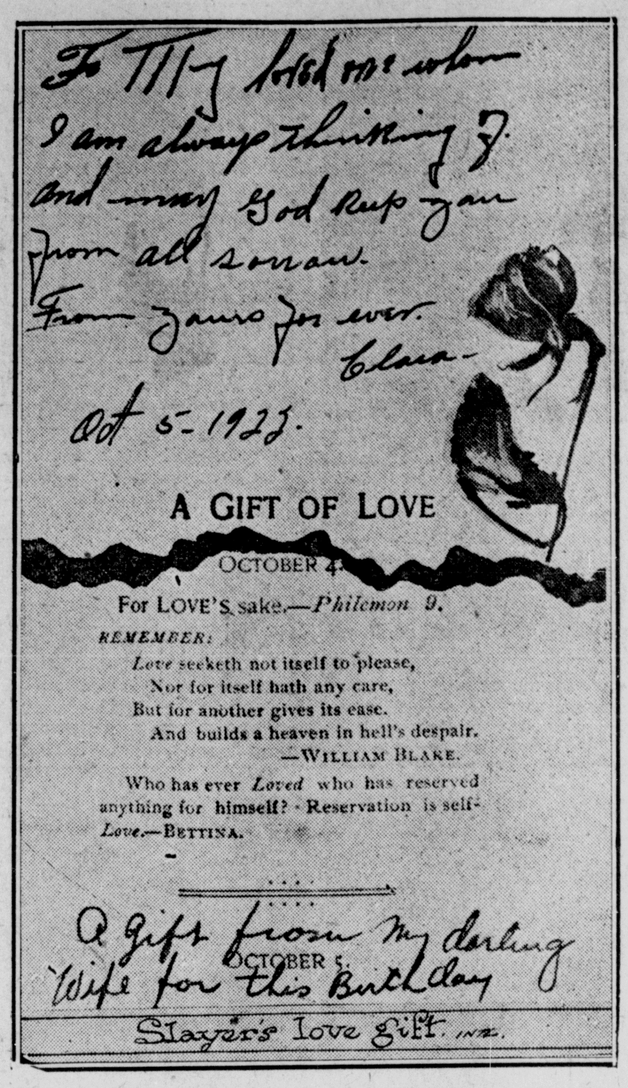
SMALLEST ARMY IN EUROPE HAS BUT 500 TROOPS

Brussels, May 4.—Europe's tiniest army has been discovered.

The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg recently announced it was about to put into effect a reorganization of its army which would double the strength of its military forces. In uninformed circles the fear arose that this might forecast fresh disurbances in turbulent Europe.

The fear subsided, however, when it was learned that the increased army will include only 500 men. Its equipment is so scant that when a baby was born to the Grand Duchess a few weeks ago the army had to borrow guns from France before it could fire the salute required by custom to herald the new arrival.

HAMMER-SLAYER'S LOVE TOKEN



Clara Phillips, brutal "stone age" murderer of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, whom she beat to death with a hammer in Los Angeles, was turned over to the police by her husband, Armour Phillips, oil promoter, who is now accused of having aided her in her flight from the Los Angeles jail, where she was serving a life term. Mrs. Phillius is believed to be under arrest in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. For a time she was bitter against her husband, but this "love token" seized when Phillips was arrested, showed that she had forgiven him. The "love token" is made up of pages from a book and shows curiously sentimental thoughts for a woman of so depraved a character.

Atlanta, Ga., May 4.—Is jelly making a serious menace to woman citizenship?

Mrs. Percey V. Pennybacker, of Austin, Texas, chairman of the department of American citizenship in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, believes it is. Not in itself, of course, but because it permits one more petty excuse on woman's part for dodging the solemn responsibility and glorious privilege of the ballot.

The three things that women of America most need to do to become better citizens and more intelligent voters, in Mrs. Pennybacker's opinion, are to read, to talk and to think. Yes, sir! To talk!

"Women do not talk enough," Mrs. Pennybacker declares. "By that I mean they do not discuss important questions of the day. The casting of a ballot is the expression of an opinion. One cannot have an intelligent opinion unless he or she knows the facts. Women waste time upon pretty things that should be spent obtaining facts.

"To build a real opinion three steps are necessary: First, reading. We read to obtain facts, and we have no right to read only one side of a question. The second step toward becoming informed is to talk with many men and women of many minds in many walks of life. However, we may read and talk eternally without having done our whole duty.

"The third step necessary to good citizenship is to think. Have you noticed how few people are willing to go off alone and dig clear down into the fundamentals of their own consciousness, to make their own opinions pass in review, to challange each one before the bar of reason and conscience? Yet we must think things out for ourselves and then make our opinions articulate, for even silent thought does not fill the service America asks of us.

Mrs. Pennybacker, who on May 8 will address club women of America in council assembled here, will put before them some of the dangers facing the country today and which, she declares, demand the newly enfranchised no longer dodge.

Mrs. Pennybacker will remind the clubwomen that Mrs. Loumans, a distinguished woman of Wisconsin, was defeated in her state primaries "because the women didn't vote. They said it was too hot. They were making jelly." All of which resulted in Mrs. Youmans getting 55 votes in a village where she had been promised 150.

Mrs. Pennybacker deplores the attempt to destroy the primaries, which she holds, are a real step toward pure democracy, even the imperfect.

"But alas!" she admits, "as practiced today, the primary system is, indeed, open to critisim — when bosses of both parties fight a system, thinking freemen will generally find good in that system Let our task be, then, to help improve, not destroy the primary."

Wrong campaign tactics of today are, in Mrs. Pennybacker's opinion, one reason for young people's lack of reverence for those in authority. "If youth lacks respect," says she, "age is to blame."

"Childen are listening," she warns. "In our talk about public affairs how often we indulge in ties against public officials. From the president down to the constable no one escapes. What idea are your children receiving of respect due those in authority.

Respect for authority, respect for law, and respect for enforcement of the law are necessary in the development of good citizenship, Mrs. Pennybacker points out, deploring the modern tendency of the public, the press and the screen to sympathize with the lawbreaker, especially the violator of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

"The law is the judgment of the community as to what is necessary, and when it ceases to accord with public needs the law itself prescribes how it may be changed. Whenever a citizen in public or private life breaks the law, however, he substitutes his own judgment for the judgment of the community. Who claims for himself at his own pleasure the right to break the law opens the door to disorder, riot and demoralized citizenship."

ANNOUNCE MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE FOR LOCAL PLAYGROUND

Completion of a temporary organization which it is hoped to build the Community Recreation Association of Xenia, was announced Thursday by H. H. Schueler, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, who has left Xenia, after a week here in the interests of the proposed playground centers for this city.

The personnel of the temporary committee consists of: Edwin M. Woodward, Chairman; C. W. Murphy, S. O. Hale, S. M. McKay, C. H. Little, T. H. Zell, C. E. Arbogust, L. M. Nisbet, Mrs. Harrison Baker, Dr. A. B. Kester, H. S. LeSourd, John R. Beacham, Rev. W. H. Tilford, G. E. Hudson, Miss Rose Berry, Mrs. M. L. Wolf, Mrs. Lois Olcott, Miss Margaret Steele and P. H. Flynn.

With the arrival here of F. H. Young, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, about the middle of May, activities will be started looking toward the consummation of the playground project, the latter part of June, it is announced by those interested in the movement. Mr. Young, who spent some time here during the spring working on the plan, wil take charge of the work remaining here until the settlement of the movement.

Present plans call for the location of four playgrounds, situated at strategic points over the city, sites for which have not yet been selected. The campaign for funds will start shortly after Mr. Young's arrival, and an attempt will be made to raise $1,500 which it is estimated will be sufficient to equip the centers pay the salary of a physical instructor and that of four assistants for the three months' period.

Cooperation with the Board of Education whereby the physical instructor hired by the board for the schools, shall give nine months' of his time to the school work and the remaining three to the Playground Association, will relieve the latter of the expense of hiring another man, and makes the association responsible for only three months' salary for the requirement.

It is pointed out that a state law requires 100 minutes of physical instruction every week in public schools, making is essential for a city school physical director. This it is said, need not add to the financial budget of the schools, as the employing of a combined physical instructor and athletic coach will meet the requiement.

Mr. Young will stay in Xenia one month, at the end of which time it is hoped that the preparatory work will have been completed, and the playgrounds ready for use. Expenses of the organizer will be defrayed partly by the local association and partly by the organization which he represents. It is estimated that the city's share will be roughly $200.

Agitation for a recreation center started last spring at which time an attempt was made to acquire 47 acres in the Dodds Addition with the aim of developing it into a playground and recreation center for the city. Obstacles in the way of the obtaining of the tract frustrated plans in that direction, and led to the formation of the movement to locate the centers at various parts of the city. This, it is pointed out, will be more convenient to more people than the original idea.

MRS. MARIE RANCK,
COLUMBUS, O.

That Ka-di-ok is an effective stomach remedy is proven by the numerous statements given by grateful people who have been benefited by its use. Mrs. Marie Ranck, living at 621 City Park Avenue, in relating her experience with Ka-di-ok, says: "For two years or more I have had severe spells of indigestion, during which time I have had to watch my diet very carefully. I dare not eat bananas, tomatoes and other sour or acid foods, as they always caused me to have pains around my heart afterwards. Sometimes I have suffered the most acute pains simply from drinking a glass of cold water. At times I felt as though I should die as the spells became so frequent and so severe. I lost a lot of weight and was very weak and nervous. I tried different remedies, but without getting results until I took Ka-di-ok and have not had a single spell since I took the first bottle. I eat all the food that disagreed with me before and never feel bad from it. I have taken, all told, seven bottles of Ka-di-ok and have gained fifteen pounds in weight and am now perfectly well in every respect. From my personal experience I highly endorse Ka-di-ok as a grand stomach medicine."

Ka-di-ok can be obtained at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store, Xenia.

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, of the First Presbyterian Church has inaugureated sleight of hand illustrations, as an interesting feature of the children's party of the Sunday services.

Last Sunday morning, the Rev. Mr. Tilford, gave a five-minute children's sermon, proceeding the regular morning discourse, with an illustration with chemicals, of the different attitudes one can take in life, good and bad. With seven glasses and a crockery pitcher, the speaker illustrated the differences in lives, and how there should be nothing but purity in all.

Next Sunday and the following five Sunday's the Rev. Mr. Tilford will give the following children's talks: May 6, "A child's Heart," May 13, "First Things First," May 20, "Seeing Though God's Eye," May 27, "Taking Out the Heart Spots," or "The Disappearing Black," June 3, "Seek and Ye Shall Find," June 10, "Children's Day." The Rev. Mr. Tilford will also enter into a variety of illustrations among them the Magic Multiplying Slate and The Making of the Flag."

HERE'S WORLD'S LARGEST BASEBALL CROWD

The largest crowd that ever witnessed a baseball game packed the new Yankee stadium in New York to witness the opening game of the season between the Yankee and the Boston Red Sox. Just 74,200 persons managed to get in before the gates were closed. The largest crowd that had seen a game up to that time was 42,620 at a world's series game, in Boston, in 1916. Here is part of the huge New York throng.

The O. S. and S. O. Home baseball nine defeated Wilmington High School at Wilmington, Wednesday by a 6 to 5 score.

The game was hotly contested and was a fine exhibition of the national pastime. It was the first game for either one of the teams. Both of the pitchers were in a nice shape. Noland who worked on the mound for the Home lads fanned 10, walked two and let the Wilmington baseballers down with five hits. The Home lads supported him nicely making no errors.

Hill twirled for the Wilmington gang and showed fine form. He struck out 17, walked 5 and held the Home bunch to 2 scattered hits. His team did not play very well behind him making costly errors. Lee and Torrence got the only two hits for the Home lads.

Wilmington started things going in the first inning with two out when Barnes got a two bagger and Hill singled left scoring him. Hill stole second and Atchison singled down the first base line scoring Hill. Treft walked. Atchison went down to third without being played for. Wells singled and Atchison scored. Scott fanned for the final out. Coach Black's horsehide tossers came back in the next frame and added another tally. Hale, first man up, fouled out to Brewster. Peele was safe when Schultz dropped his high fly ball to second. Adams whiffed and Peele stole third, and scored on a passed ball. Barnes was out Brewster to Torrence.

The Home scored first in the sixth. Woods, first man up, fanned, Torrence was safe on Barnes's error and stole second. Lewis grounded to Barnes for the second out. Noland walked, Turney walked filling the sacks. Lee hit a bounder to the shortstop who muffed it and Torrence crossed the plate, Waterman hit a fly to Wells who misjudged it and the result was that Noland and Turney scored. Lee going to third. Lee scored on a wild throw by Hill. Waterman was caught at second Hill to Hale for the third out. The Home got two more runs in the eight as result of sloppy playing on the part of Wilmington. Noland, fanned, Turney was safe on Peele's error. Lee walked and Turney stole third. Lee went to second on a balk by Hill. Turney and Lee both stole home.

Wilmington High scored another tally in the final inning. Bonecutter who went in as pinch hitter for Hale was passed up. Peele fanned. Bonecutter stole second, and scored on Adams sacrifice fly. Hill singled but Atchison was out Turney to Torrence.

The lineup:

Home—Torrence 1b, Lewis lf, Noland p, Turney 2b, Lee 3b, Brewster c, Waterman c, F. Lutz, ss, Schultz. Kinner rf.

Wilmington—Peele cf, Adams ss, Barnes 1b, Hill p, Atchison c, Treft 3b, Wells lf. Scott, Hackney rf. Hale 2b, Bonecutter batted for Hale in the ninth.

English Cup Goes To America

Sandwich, England, May 4.—Francis Ouimet, of Boston, today won the play off from Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Oregon, for the St. George's challenge cup in the International Golf tournament.

The match provided a tense finish, Ouimet winning by a single strike at the end of 18 holes, an advantage gained on the opening hole where he took a four against his rival's five. The medal scores were:

Ouimet 77; Dr. Willing 78.

Ouimet's victory caused no surprise in the large gallery that followed the match and intently watched every move of the American, playing for a trophy which had hitherto remained the property of England and Englishmen.

Willing's ability to score in the seventies astonished the British in view of his form. The Portland medico is no stylist but his game was as steady as Gibraltar and his putting sound and sometimes brilliant.

Ouimet, on the other hand, displayed flashy golf. Although he lacked Willing's steadiness, he recovered remarkably well and was always strong on the greens.

Paddock May Be Outlawed

Paris, May 4.—The French Athletic Federation was summoned into special conference this evening to consider action against the Paris university club for allowing Charley Paddock, of Los Angeles, world's champ sprinter to participate in the preliminaries of the international unicersity meet last night. Sport experts fear that the university club and participants, including Paddock will be outlawed. The French Athletic Federation cabled to the Amateur Athletic Union of America for permission for Paddock to complete but the university club did not wait for a reply.

The French organization issued a communique saying that "a delicate situation in international sports has been created.

Sophomores Lead Juniors

Baseball games between the Junior and Sophomores classes of Central High School are played on the order of a six-day bicycle race.

The teams got together at Washington St. Park. Thursday afternoon and began their installment-plan game. In two and one-half innings the athletes had piled up a total score that sounded enough for two full-time games.

Hostilities were suspended because of darkness at the termination of the first half of the third inning, and the beligerents called a truce until Friday evening when the performers hope to squeeze in enough baseball to fill out a minimum game of five innings. They play an inning down and an inning a week like a mail-order furniture house. Sophomores were leading 10 to 5 when the game was called.

The pastiming was scheduled as one of the games that will decide the class championship of the school. If other class teams stage their games in sections like Thursday afternoon's set-to, the games are going to cut into the football season.

BOOZE PUTS MILD COWS ON WARPATH

Popular Bluff Mo., May 4. — There was a merry jingle of cowbells, and for a long time Judge R. M. Wagner thought his stock, as in the nursery rhyme, were going to essay hurdling the moon.

Five head of the judge's best and, under normal conditions, most docile cows came home the other night staggering and bellowing.

The judge went to console them, but when he appeared the faithful old cows mimicked their male brethren and placed him in the role of a toreador. The cows charged but the judge made a hasty escape from the enraged animals.

The cows, it was found, had strayed off in the neighborhood and imbibed of some moonshine mash. One cow died, another went blind, and three others are "sobering up" from their little party.

ENGLISH PURSES TO BE KEENLY AFFECTED BY BUDGET FIGURES- TO BE ANNOUNCED ON MONDAY

London, May 4.— There are days of great anticipatron for citizens of Great Britain.

On Monday the most interesting event of the governmental years will take place. Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin will announce the budget for 1923-24. Every British pocketbook will be affected by the announcement, and the man in the street is today holding his breath wondering whether his pocketbook is going to be further burdened or relieved.

The provisions of the budget are being guarded with the closest secrecy. Every newspaper writer is making his own forecast and everyone who knows anyone in any remote way connected with the Government is giving an "inside tip", but the real secret won't be out until Monday afternoon.

The budget for 1922-23 shows a surplus of approximately $500,000,000. What is the Chancellor of the Exchequer going to do with that surplus? That is the question upon which the hopes and fears of the British people hang.

If the Chancellor decides to use the surplus for current purposes in order to remit taxes and lighten the burden of the individual taxpayer, his budget will be popular. If it is decided to use the surplus for payment of the Government's debts the budget will be unpopular, but the fiscal position of Great Britain will be strengthened.

The chances are that the Chancellor will seek to steer a middle course and will make some slight remissions in taxes, but will also use a large part of the surplus for the sinking fund, the funding of debts and pensions.

The vital taxes are these:
Income tax.
Tax upon tea.
Tax upon beer.
Tax upon sugar.

If the Chancellor can arrange to reduce these taxes slightly his popularity will be assured. A reduction of the income tax would please the upper classes, a reduction of the beer tax would win over the lower classes, and the tea and sugar tax reductions ould appeal to every class.

What the Chancellor will do is still a mystery, but his life these days is no easy one.

"I am being hunted like a hart upon the mountains," the Chancellor said. "I have no peace from morning until night. I walk at six miles an hour through the lobby of the House of Commons to get away from those footfalls which always seem to be behind me, from those earnest souls who have schemes to tell me how to redeem the American debt in five years, who wish to tell me what taxes can be removed and what my duty is in every department of the budget.

"I am very anxious to have what is called a popular budget. I am not myself a believer in brilliancy or imagination in finance."

The Chancellor is having a strenuous week end. The fortunes of the Government may depend upon his announcement on Monday.

PARIS CITY ZOO GOING TO RUIN- NEEDS REPAIRS

Paris, May 4.— The few lonely animals that are left in the Paris Zoo will soon have to find a new home unless the municipolity is willing to donate a few hundred thousand thousand francs to replenish the cages and put things in good order that have been uncared for since 1914.

M. Fernand Laurent, Curator of the Jardin d'Acclimatation, reports to the Paris City Council that his zoo is a zoo in name only.

He has but a few animals and those are of ordinary species found in any city of importance.

"The Winter Garden," says M. Laurent, "which was built to be warm in winter and cool in summer, is neither one nor the other.

It will take at least one hundred thousand francs to put this famous resort into shape. The Palm Court is now only a court. The glass roof is minus. It rains inside as well as out.

The palms and ferns have long ago died or frozen. The Bird Gallery is almost non-existent, with only two birds of paradise, which I had hoped would bred only to find that they are both males.

"The Aquarium has become the Bear Cave. I have three bears installed there, but they are old and toothless.

We are at present finishing a pool for a hippopotamus, but I haven't the least idea when we'll get the hippopotamus .If, before the war a swan could be purchased for one hundred and fifty francs and today costs three thousand five hundred francs, what will a hippopotamus cost?"

In M. Laurent's report to the City Council he states it would be better to turn the entire Zoo into a park, tear down the buildings and make walks and flower beds and benches, leaving one of the buildings standing, and convert it into a theater, making it free to the public.

No more Rheumatism

"Suffering has gone from your face, mother!"

S. S. S. Is the Great Builder of Red-Blood-Cells and Rheumatism Must Go! Just Try It!

"Rheumatism? Me? No, indeed, it's all gone, every bit of it! It's sunshine and joy for me now for the first time in years. I feel a wonderful glory again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you." There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood-strength. Blood which is minus sufficient red-cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleanser, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run down, tired men and women, beautifies complexions, makes the flesh firmer. Start S. S. S. today. It is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Rheumatism is no respector of age, sex color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness sorenes and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. adv

CO-EDS T OSTUDY WORLD'S POLITICS

Syracuse, N. Y., May 4.—Determined to fit themselves for entrance into politics on an equal footing with men, after graduation, co-eds of Syracuse University are organizing a congress in which they debate current questions.

The new woman's body will be formed by representatives elected by the various sororities, rooming houses clubs and class organizations.

It will be patterned after the National Women's Congress, and the members will consider such vital questions as the program of the National Women's Party, aims of the League of Women Voters, social and child legislation, minimum wages for women and the proposals of the Consumers' League.

DON'T TRY THIS ON TRAFFIC COP

Atlanta, Ga., May 4.—Motorcycle policemen run against some peculiar incidents in "line of duty," and as a result of one of these E. P. Burton found himslef with a summons to appear under a charge of bribery.

The motor cop, W. M. Weaver, spurred his trusty steed rather viciously after a speeding "flivver" a few nights ago and overtook the vehicle which stopped at his signal.

J. W. Welch, the driver, was given a copy of charges for exceeding the speed limit and his passenger, Burton ,in an attempt to straighten matters out, got himself in "dutch" according to the policeman.

After the matter was all straightened out, to the satisfaction of the law, Burton is alleged to have said: "Why can't we settle this thing right now?"

According to the "copper," Burton at this juncture passed over a $2 bill. The $2 bill was turned in at the station.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

Voicing the opinion that the "highest duty and function of the state is to conserve child life," Mrs. Cora C. Cooley, of Cleveland, superintendent of the division of charities for Ohio, and a well-known club woman, recently addressed the Mansfield Federation of Women's Clubs upon her work which is so interwoven with that of federated club women that it forms a big part in all federations.

Child welfare carries an appeal so strong that practically, if not all club federations in the state, now have a welfare department. Mrs. Cooley made such a profound iupression in her Mansfield address that Mrs. Ada Marriott, chairman of the Mansfield federation's welfare department, expresses the hope that all club women in Ohio might hear her. Mrs. Cooley is very busy in her state work of course, but she speaks whenever she finds the time to do so because of her great love of humanity and because of the great many worthy causes crying out to be heard by willing, sympathetic ears such as club women are lending throughout the state.

She touched on the mothers' pension law, declaring that the sum alloted had never been sufficient. The outstanding part of her forceful address dealt with the children. She emphasized one plan for caring for the children who had no one else to care for the — that of committing them to the state. "These children are not taken away from the mother, if she be a fit person," said Mrs. Cooley. "The state boards these unfortunate children with their own mother, if she be a fit person, and the home is supervised so far as the children are concerned and in the end it has actually cost less than maintaining these children in the overcrowded state institutions. In Ohio today there are more than 1,800 yearly—inspected homes in which children are boarded and in which they have a part in the home life."

Clubs and federations electing delegates should forward their names at once to Mrs. Lewis L. La Shell, No. 1303 Oregon avenue, Steubenville, chairman of the credentials committee for the state club convention at Steubenville the week of May 21. Each club of 50 members or less may be represented by its president or her representative and one delegate. Clubs numbering more than 50 members are entitled to a delegate for every additional 50 members up to a membership of 1,200. City or country federations of 10 clubs or less may be represented by two delegates and are entitled to one delegate or additional 20 clubs. Visiting club women will be welcome to the sessions of the convention. They may take part in the discussions, but are excluded from makin motions or voting. Visitors, who are always numerous, must register and receive an admission badge.

Mrs. Louis Burgner, of Oberlin, vice president of the Middle North district, addressed the April meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Crestline. She spoke for an hour on club work as it is conducted throughout the world, giving the Crestline women many helpful suggestions for carrying out their own club problems.

"Why should the General Federation of Women's Clubs have headquarters." This is often asked. There is a constantly growing necessity for the great body of club women standing for constructive work to attain more closely combined action and wider understanding. An adequate office is necessary to give this correlation to the efforts of the thousands of clubs throughout the United States. Headquarters is a place where club women can get the help they need at any and all time. It is a place where the motto is, "Never let a club woman ask in vain." A loan library of books and clippings is being built up and when this is finished it will be a great help in program needs for clubs everywhere.

If 2,000,000 club women have the vision to stand together, they must have the vision to maintain suitable headquarters for the General Federation.

NATIONAL GOLD STAR ROADS TO HONOR HEROES

St. Louis, May 4.—After three years of tireless effort the National Society of World War Registrars announces that it has completed the foundation for organization in every State in the Union. The society is composed of blood relatives and wives of World War veterans.

Its first big project is aimed for the establishment of Gold Star Highways to be so routed to help make a continuous thoroughfare from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the gulf, thus creating a National Gold Star Crossroads system which will intersect at a point near the geographical center of the United States.

These highways will stand as tributes to the gold-star mothers and as monuments to their gold-star sons.

CENTER AT ST. LOUIS.

Being situated geographically as probably the largest center city, a movement has been started to have St. Louis designated as the intersectional point where would be erected a huge "Arch of Freedom" in this city. Each State would be represented by a block of granite in the construction of this central arch.

Missouri was the first State asked to name and dedicate as such memorial highways all recently constructed permanent roads to be built from the State bond issue and Federal aid roads.

Governor Hyde two years ago recommended that no State highway be named until permanently constructed but he now has named, as designated by the State Highway Commissioner, the Kansas City-St. Louis road as the Gold Star Crossroad of Missouri.

ALL STATES INVITED.

Every Governor and Highway Commissioner in every State of the Union has been asked by the World War Registrars to pay a similar tribute to their gold-star mothers and their fallen sons. In the appeal to the various States it also has been urged that the highways so designated shall lead in the direction of and converge in a central city of the United States, thus creating a nationwide "Gold Star Monument."

The majority of States have endorsed the project, and a number of them have designated roads leading toward St. Louis.

It is planned at various intervals, preferably at points where roads converge and where the various State roads meet, to mark the highways by the erection of arches or pillars.

The society hopes to have all the roads lined with trees suitable to the climate, each to bear a gold colored metal star bearing the name of a veteran, his rank, organization, etc., the plan to be carried out until all veterans who died in the service from each community shall have a marker dedicated to his memory.

EYE IS INJURED

Mrs. James Laurens of the Richland neighborhood, is suffering from a peculiar accident which she sustained a few days ago, when she stooped to pick up a basket filled with straw, and a dry straw or weed penetrated the right eye.

The eyeball was badly lacerated but it is thought the sight is not damaged. Dr. Hartiner, of Springs Valley, was called and dressed th einjury and Mrs. Laurens is now convalescing nicely.

'DON'T GAMBLE,' MONTE CARLO'S CROUPIERS SAY

Monte Carlo, May 4.—"Don't gamble! You have as much chance to win as the pigeons at the live pigeon shoot down on the terrace have to escape with their lives."

That's the advice of the croupiers at the roulette tables at the Monte Carlo Casino—of the men whose life business is gambling.

There is no "system," no way of beating the house in the long run, no way of predicting when or how often the little ball is going to flop into any certain number on the whirling red and black disk, a score of croupiers questioned by International News Service agreed. All were emphatic also in saying that if they were not working in the Casino they would never think of risking even five francs at such a game, in which luck is the only winning factor.

"You always lose in the end," one croupier twenty years in the service declared. "There is no system, but if you happen to be lucky enough to win at the start quit immediately. If you keep on playing you are bound to lose."

Another croupier adviser that taking a walk or going to bed would be much more profitable than gambling in the Casino.

But in spite of the advice of these veterans, recognized as sound by almost every person who plays, the roulette tables are constantly crowded with persons—men and women, young and old—all eager to have the croupiers place their chips on what they believe are their lucky numbers.

The devices for picking lucky numbers are ingenious, according to the croupiers.

Many players start by betting on the number or numbers represented by their coat checks. Others have numbers which they believe are particularly lucky for them and which they always play.

One American actress always plays three numbers, six, eight and twenty-eight—the first because she was born on the sixth of January, the second because she was married on the eighth of March a year ago and the third because she is twenty-eight years old. And she is certain that her only chance to make a big winning is on one of those three numbers.

WAR HERO IS SENT BACK-UNDESIRABLE

Cleveland, O., May 4.—James Walton, a British war hero, three times the recipient of decorations for bravery in action was one of a number of "undesirable aliens" on board a "deportation special" which left Cleveland this morning.

Walton, a British subject, lived in Akron before the war, but returned home, enlisted and distinguished himself. Shell shocked in 1917, he was discharged receiving decorations from the British, French and Belgian governments for his gallantry. He returned to the United States but as a result of his war service has become subject to attacks and has lost a dozen or more jobs. These attacks, physicians says, are a direct result of his war service.

Styles BY LENORE

One of the most important features which distinguishes French creations is the skill and ingenuity of the details. A collar to a Frenchwoman is not just a collar, necessary for the completion of the neck. A ribbon bow is not just a tied piece of ribbon. A pocket is not just a pocket for purposes of utility. In Paris a dressmaker will spend hours on the creation of an original detail.

tailleur a pouch pocket, embroidered is projected through a slash and hangs below the line of the coat. On another model the pocket, also embroidered, is set on separately with buttons.

Another embroidered pocket of oblong shape is slashed through the center. On a silk crepe frock the pleated panels on each side of the skirt for the pockets, and on a dark red cloth dress there is a beige colored semicircular satin pocket sewed on with fagotting. the disc completed with another half circle of the silk above the pocket.

If I were to ask every one of my Readers, face to face, the question, "What fancy work do you do?" I have no doubt that a good percentage of them would reply: "Fancy work? My fancy work is mending my husband's sock's! Or letting down my little girl's dresses! I have no time for unnecessary handiwork! I'm simply rushed to death every minute."

And I know that this is true. Few busy housekeepers have time for "pretty" work. It is hard to find time to knit, crochet, embroider, make rag rugs or sew on a new table runner or pillow top.

Yet often the busiest housekeepers are the very ones who need this moment of relaxation from their sterner duties. A half hour on their front porch in Summer, sewing on a new bureau scarf or appliqued bedspread, would give their taunt nerves a rest and would send them back to their cooking and dish washing and cleaning with renewed vigor.

Then, there is another side to fancy work—the social side. I do not mean that word in the fashionable sense; I mean it in the neighborly sense. If we do any kind of fancy work, other women who do fancy work are drawn to us. The common interest wields acquaintanceship into friendship. I know of an instance of this truth right among my own friends.

Mrs. X had lived in a community for five years without making a real friend. Last Summer she suddenly became interested in crocheting. She bought a book of directions and began making herself a sweater. Instantly Mrs. Z, who lived across the street, was interested. Mrs. Z inquired at once about the stitch she was using, the nature of the garment, and the book of directions. A week later Mrs. Z and Mrs. X formed the habit of crocheting together whenever they could snatch a few moments from their work. Then other women on the street joined them with their handiwork. And by the end of the Summer they had practically a Fancy Work Club.

We women, in our anxiety to be thorough housekeepers, sometimes lose sight of the fact that we have a right to a little social life, as well as our daughters and our sons and the other members of our family. Not necessarily "social life" which embraces card parties and afternoon teas; but just the simple, neighborly sociability that every woman needs to keep her cheerful and happy and normal. If you have let your household duties crowd this sociability out of your life, why not take up fancy work this Summer and keep in touch with other women who enjoy this delightful diversion?

A PURITAN WIFE

By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER LXXI

Ann waited for them. Twice she went in to Hugh, but remained but a few moments each time. His keen eyes noted her misery, and she was in no mood for talking of it.

It was over an hour later that Dick and Grace came in, face flushed, her eyes bright. Dick did not look at Ann, but said:

"Run along to your bunk now, Grace. I hope you sleep well."

"Oh, I shall, never fear! Goodnight, all," and Ann and Dick were left alone.

Ann rose and went about as she always did, seeing that everything was right for the night. Then she went to bed at once. Dick, in spite of his seeming anxiety to retire, did not come until long afterward. Ann pretended to be asleep. She thought he had waited purposely, thinking she might talk.

In the morning, before he dressed, he tapped on the living room door.

"Time to get up Grace, if you are to have breakfast with me," he called. She answered sleepily, and Ann, fearful she would say something for which she would be sorry, maintained her silence until she was dressed, hurried into the kitchen.

"Miss Edmunds will have breakfast this morning. Set another place, Nora." Heretofore when Grace had been with them she never got up for breakfast, declaring it was heathenish to eat so early.

Grimblingly, Nora obeyed.

And grumblingly Grace appeared. It was outrageous for people to get up in the middle of the night; she was sure she couldn't eat a thing!

"I expect I'll be coming in during the morning for a bite," she said as she sipped her coffee. "I wouldn't get up at this unearthly hour for anyone in the world but you, Dicky," sse said. "Do give me some more coffee, Ann, I'm not half awake yet."

Ann rang for Nora, gave her the pot and told her to fill it. As Nora passed Grace, she held up her cup.

"You fill it," she said.

There was a scream, the sound of a falling pot, and then Dick grabbed Grace, still screaming, and swore at Nora for her carelessness. The entire scalding contents of the pot had fallen into Grace's lap and on her arm.

Quickly Ann got oil and bandages, while Dick carried the screaming girl into the living room and laid her on the couch, still just as she had left it.

"She did it on purpose," Grace declared, moaning. "She has never liked me. She did it on purpose!"

"Nonsense! It was an accident," Ann said, as she deftly undressed Grace to ascertain the extent of her burns. She was painfully, although not severely scalded. Ann dressed her burns, then left her. In the kitchen she cautioned Nora to be more careful in the future, almost sure it had been no accident, but unwilling to admit it.

"She won't be out in the orchard makin' love to him this day," Nora muttered. "She's no good, and she might as well got used to burnin."

All day Grace twisted and moaned. When Dick came in to luncheon she insisted he must stay with her.

"I can't stand it here alone, Dick," she said, "and Ann is with Hugh. Of course I couldn't expect her to neglect him for me." Not a word of gratefulness for Ann's care, neither did she know that Ann had been with Hugh.

Doctor Grayson came over and assured her she would be all right in a day or two. But she made much of her pain, and told him Ann should discharge Nora. She had already told Dick she was not safe to have around Jack. Dick had spoken to Ann, telling her in blunt fashion to let that clumsy girl at once.

"Will you cook the meals and wait upon your guest?" Ann had returned quietly. "I surely shall not. Nora is a very good girl, devoted to us and to Jack. She had an accident, but that is no reason I should discharge her." And Dick had said no more.

But Ann noticed that Nora sang over her work as she had not sung in weeks, and as she watched her was positive her first impression had been right. It was no accident.

Grace demanded much waiting upon that night, and Ann compelled Nora to attend her. It should be her punishment. But a shocked as she was at the action, Ann couldn't help feeling glad that she had so devoted a girl with her—a servant who resented Grace's presence in the house!

Once again Ann called Ned and told him he would have to take Grace home. The morning after she was burned he came, and, although Grace protested, he took her home with him.

AVIATORS TO SEEK NEW AIR RECORD

MACREADY AND KELLY HONORED IN SAN DIEGO

Airmen Make Cross County Flight In 26 Hours and 50 Minutes

ATTEMPT NEW FEAT

Will Try to Remain in Air for 48 Hours at Dayton Shortly

San Diego, Calif., May 4.—While the laurels of victory are still green the United States army avaitors, Lieutenants Oakley G. Kelly and John A. MacReady will seek still another world record. This time, it was revealed today, their goal will be a sustained flight of forty-eight hours and it will be attempted shortly at Dayton, Ohio.

Telegrams and even cablegrams from France, Italy and Sweden continued to pour in on the aviators today, congratulating them on their world record flight when yesterday they landed at Rockwell field, California, after a twenty-six hour non stop flight from Hempstead, N. Y. The official time made by the giant T-2 monoplane was 26 hours, fifty minutes and thirty seconds, the distance approximately 2,600 miles.

The day of triumph for the two aviators was to have culminated last night at a dinner at which several hundred American legion men and prominent citizens of San Diego and United States army and navy officers were gathered.

The guests were present. Lieutenant Kelly showed an hour late, and as embarrassed as a schoolboy with his first long trousers. Lieutenant MacReady did not show up at all and it was whispered about the tables that shyness got the better of him sh rtly before the banquent and that he had started for Los Angeles in an automobile. So Kelly became the hero of the evening all by himself.

San Diego, Cal., May 4.—The world's long distance non-stop flying record was smashed when the giant army monoplane T-2 descended at Rockwell field, San Diego, after traversing the entire distance from New York in one single flight.

The distance of approximately 2,600 miles, as the crow flies, was covered in 26 hours, 50 minutes and 38 seconds actual flying time, at an average speed of approximately 100 miles an hour.

For years aeronautical engineers have dreamed of a sustained flight across the continental United States. Lieutenants John A. MacReady and Oakley G. Kelly, flying the T-2, accomplished the feat.

The T-2 is the plane which has twice broken the world's records, and it also holds the world's lifting record for a single motored airplane. It carries over 700 gallons of gasoline.

"The performance of our liberty motor was perfect in every respect," said Lieutenant Kelly over his coffee at luncheon. "From the time it lifted our overloaded plane from Roosevelt field it throbbed away at racing speed hour after hour with never a falter until we came to earth."

"We never doubted for a moment that we would make the flight a success," said Lieutenant MacReady. "Our eastward effort of last winter in the same plane, you know, was halted because of radiator trouble after we had covered four-fifths of the distance. We were fortunate, of course, in having bright moonlight and sunshine and gentle breezes."

Trouble was experienced in only one respect, it was said. A minor difficulty developed in the battery regulator, but quick work righted the defect and the flight continued on. The two pilots alternated at the controls, each being six hours on duty at a time, they said. The off pilot would crawl back from the high control seat, which is placed far forward, to a reclining position alongside the humming motor, where he might inspect and care for it should occasion arise. Otherwise he was free to eat, smoke or sleep as desired.

Lieutenant Kelly's fiance, Miss Mary Watson, was at the flying field to greet the birdman, and the parents of Lieutenant MacReady were on hand from their home at Los Angeles to welcome their famous flying son.

The aviators appeared physically fresh and in good spirits. A telegram of congratulation was received from President Harding. The aviators were awarded $5,000 by Colonel Franklin R. Kenney, former executive of the air service, who won that amount in a wager on the flight.

KIDNAPED LAD RESTORED TO FAMILY

Verner (Dodo) Alexanderson.

After general alarm had been sent all over the country, by radio, for the apprehension of the man who lured six-year-old Verner ("Dodo") Alexanderson away from his home in Schenectady, New York, by promsing to give him a pair of rabbits. The child was located Thursday in New York state. The boy is the son of E. F. W. Alexanderson, Chief Engineer of the Radio Corporation of America, who had offered a reward of $1,000 for his return. The City of Schenectady, also, offered a similar reward.

COMPLETE COLLAPSE OF CURRENCY OF GERMANY FEARED

Washington, May 4.—Complete collapse of German currency unless depletion of the gold reserve ceases, is regarded as certain in government circles today. With the mark under 25-10,000 of a cent, the latest break having followed rejection of the new reparations offer and withdrawal of approximately 85,000,000 gold marks from the Bank of England, for German government purchase of paper marks, it is anticipated by administration officials that further drawings of the gold reserve will be made in an effort to stabilize the value of paper money.

Eventually, it was pointed out, even if this policy continues, the gold reserve, estimated at about one billion marks, will be exhausted and Germany's paper money become completely valueless, rendering the nation bankrupt. In this case Germany would be forced to repudiate her debts some authorities believe.

DEDICATE $50,000 ORGAN IN CINCINNATI

Cincinnati, O., May 4.—The Music Hall organ, completely reconstructed recently at a cost of $50,000 which was raised by popular subscriptions, was formally dedicated yesterday at the third concert of the semi centennal Cincinnati May Music Festival.

Among the audience at the concert was Mrs. Theodore Thomas, widow of the famous orchestra leader and first conductor of the festivals.

Charles Heinroth, widely known organist, was accorded the honor of being the first one to play on the new organ.

HOPE TO CLINCH CASE AGAINST CULT

St. Joseph, Mich., May 4.—The state's case against the House of David and "King" Benjamin Purnill, its leader will be clinched next week by the testimony of several new witnesses, officials conducting the one-man grand Jury investigating, confidentally predicted today.

Testimony of these witnesses will result in the issuing of a bench warrant charging several crimes other than those involving alleged mistreatment of girls, it was declared. One of the secrets of the cult revealed by Mrs. Hazel Wade Wirth, Hammond, Indiana, was the exact relations of the buildings at the House of David.

TWO FLYERS KILLED.

San Diego, Calif., May 4.—A Vought observation plane crashed to earth from a cause yet to be determined, killing the two flyers. The fall occured in the hill country about twenty miles east of this city. The men killed were Aviation Chief Carpenter's Mate H. H. Tatman and H. H. Erdkmap.

KIDNAPED BOY FOUND: HAD NOT BEEN INJURED

Six Year Old Lad Reunited With Parents On Friday

Watertown, N. Y. May 4.—"Hello Mamma."

"Hello Verner."

This commonplace exchange of greetings, reminiscent of O. Henry and his commentary of what folks say in times of stress, marked the reunion today of Verner Alexanderson, kidnaped son of the noter Schenectardy radio engineer, and his mother, who rushed to this city by private car to claim the child who had been stolen from her three days ago.

The reunion—made doubly strange by the self assurance of the stolen child—took place at the Jefferson County Jail, where the boy, rescued from a riverside cottage at Thersesa, where he had been held captive, had spent the night.

In the meanwhile, police are searching for two men believed to be the kidnapers. Three women are under arrest as accomplice—witnesses and detectives are following clues furnished by them to apprehend the principals.

"Dodo" was found by Under Sheriff Frederick Jackson of Jefferson county in a small house on the outskirts of the town of Teresa, 35 miles north of Watertown. The boy's father is chief engineer of the radio corporation of America and consulting engineer of the General Electric company.

Telling the story of the boy's recovery, Jackson said: "Verner is alive and well. He was not treated badly, and so far as I know never knew that he was in danger. We learned of his whereabouts from Frederick E. Jarvis, owner of a cottage on a little lake, three miles back of the town of Theresa. Jarvis had been approached last week by a man who wanted to rent the cottage. He was curious, and today went to see who his tenants were. Approaching the house it seemed deserted at first, but after he had entered the room he saw, huddled in some blankets on an old bed a little boy, who proved to be the kidnaped child. Mrs. Grennell then came from another room and told Jarvis she had been hired to take care of the boy. I feel sure she was not involved in the plot."

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN CASE EXPECTED

Columbus, O., May 4.—The State Prohibition Department will await further developments in New Philadelphia, and will allow Mayor E. N. Fair to show whether he can handle the situation there, said Deputy Prohibition Commission F. S. Evans here today, referring to six affidavits charging failure to prosecute prohibition violators, booze parties and joy riders by officials in Governor Donahey's home town.

These affidavits have been filed with State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald. Deputy Commissioner Evans said that the facts had been laid before the mayor and that "it is now up to him."

It is probable that charges will be filed against four police officers within a few days, Evans said.

PORTO RICO MAY BE VISITED BY HARDING

Washington, May 4.—President Harding's forthcoming trip across the continent and to Alaska, starting next month, may be extended to include Porto Rico, it was learned this afternoon. Mr. Harding has under contemplation a water trip from Alaska or Seattle, through the Panama canal to Porto Rico which would require a month's time.

No definite decision has yet been made but Secretary of the Navy Denby informed the president this morning that if he decided to go the navy could place at his disposal the new light cruiser Detroit, recently commissioned and one of the most modern of the navy's light craft. Mr. Harding is loath to stay away from the White House for the length of time necessary to make the trip, it was said. He nevertheless is desirous of visiting Porto Rico to see for himself the conditions there that have led to recent unpleasantness for American administration.

It was also said by his advisers, eliminating some of the ships would help raise the impression that the president is on a campaign tour.

Mr. Harding is extremely anxious to eradicate from the public mind any impressions that he is going on a stumping tour as a candidate for re-election.

OCCUPATIONAL TAX VETOED.

Marion, O., May 4.—Mayor George W. Neely vetoed the occupational tax measure passed by council April 23. Every worker would be taxed to support the municipal administration under the measure. There are seven members of council. Five voted for the tax, so the measure may be passed over the mayor's veto.

Lebourget, France, May 4.—The military aviator, Contard, broke the altitude record for a machine carrying a load of 550 pounds by rising to a height of 8,000 meters, approximately 26,250 feet, as against the previous record of 7,338 meters made by Jean Casals on March 20 last.

TRIAL OF GERMANS CHARGED BY FRENCH OPENS ON FRIDAY

Hearing Takes Place Amidst a War-Like Setting

Werden, Occupied Germany, May 4.—Amidst a warlike setting, emphasized by tanks, machine guns, military lorries and soldiers with bayonetted rifles, the trial of Herr Gustav Krupp Von Bohlen and Halbach and three directors of the Krupp works at Essen, began today before a French courtmartial. They are charged with instigating disorders and arousing German hostility against the French.

Herr Krupp Von Bohlen is the head of the Krupp works and the husband of Bertha Krupp, whose father founded the industry. The directors are Herr Bruhen, Herr Hartwig and Herr Oesterlein.

The specific accusation is violation of decree number 22, issued by General DeGoutte, commander in chief of the Frensh army of occupation, which forbids complicity and other machinations in secret agreement against order and safety of the occupational forces.

PARADE STAGED TO LOWER SUGAR PRICES

New York, May4—Twenty five thousand women and children were to parade to the city hall here this afternoon and demand lower suar prices

The "buy less" and "eat less" activities of the New York City housewives sugar committee have broken sugar prices about one cent retail but the women say that is not enough.

Sugar prices took another drop today. Cuban sugar falling to 5 7-8 cents a pound. The Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company announced a reduction of 75 points to 9.60 cents a pound and the National Sugar Refining Company posted a reduction of 25 points to 9.90 cents a pound.

NITRO GLYCERIN STORES EXPLODE

New Lexington, O., May 4.— One thousand quarts of nitro glycerin, stored in a warehouse of the Agnew Torpedo Company at Bremen, near here, exploded just before noon today, completely wrecking the building.

It is not believed that any workmen were in the building, but a careful checkup is being made this afternoon.

ANOTHER NON-STOP FLIGHT PLANNED.

Washington, May 4.—Not content with having established a non-stop transcontinental record of 26 hours with the T-2, army air service officials announced that they are planning another flight in an effort to cut that time in half. It is planned to use the speediest plane in the army—the same one which established a world's record recently near Dayton, O., by flying a short distance at a speed of 236 miles an hour.

TO MEET AT CLEVELAND.

Dayton, O., May 4.—At the closing session of the Ohio State Medical association here Dr. G. E. Follansbee of Cleveland was elected president of the organization to succeed Dr. J. S. Rardin of Portsmouth. Cleveland was selected as the 1924 convention city.

SHOWS TRICKS USED BY SPIRITUALISTS

Chicago, May 4.—Not shadowy forms and spirits of the departed rule, the real matter of fact shadow land, but nimble fingers and quick minds of very much alive human beings, Joseph Freud, manufacturer and inventor of electrical appliances, maintained to the satisfaction of many skeptics today after a "spirit" demonstration before a meeting of the North Side branch of the Chicago Medical Society.

Freud produced phantom faces and hands, ghostly music and spirit photographs, after the most approved manner of spiritualists, and then showed his audience the very mundane methods used in producing such phenomonae.

FORMER NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY STUDENT SOUGHT BY THE POLICE

Veiled Accusation Against Allen Mills Reported to Be In California is Made By His Room-mate.

Chicago, May. 4.—The inquest into the death of Leighton Mount, Northwestern University freshman, whose skeleton was found under a lake pier Monday, after his disappearance in September 1921, was continued this afternoon when the coroner announced that he wishes to make an independent investigation.

Miss Doris Fuchs of whom Mount was enamored, is to be among the first witnesses called before the Grand Jury when it takes up the inquiry next week.

Chicago, May 4.—Following an all-night questioning of a score of Northwestern University students, in the inquiry into the death of Leighton Mount, 18, freshman, who dsappeared during the class rush in September 1921 and whose body was found Monday under a pier at Evanston, the state's attorney's office today is seeking Allen Mills, a former student now reported to be in a California prison.

A veiled accusation against Mills by Will McIlwain, his former roommate, gave a tangible clue. McIlwain declared Mills returned to his rooms dripping wet on the night of the class ight and semed worried.

The news of Mount's disappearance, according to McIlwain, semed to increase Mills' distraction, and he often asked about Mount.

John Scott, son of President Walter Dill Scott, and Fred Scott, nephew of President Scott, were among the students who were questioned. Both declared they had only a very small part in the class skirmishes.

One of the sensations of the inquiry was the calling of Axel Lonquest, rich contractor and recent father-in-law of Fred Scott, who declared when he sought the annulment of his daughter's marriage to young Scott, that, if he told what he knew of the youth, that it would create a sensation.

Officers are alsor seeking Arthu Persinger, another student victim of the class rush, who was reported to have been tied in a precarious position to a lake pier and hope to obtain valuable testimony from it. It developed today that Mount's body was literally buried "in the shadow of the cross."

Rising above the pier where the body was found was a wooden cross—a symbol of hope and life—that had been erected there for a life preserver support, a grim joke on the part of those who buried the body.

Forty more students have been summoned for questioning at the state's attorney's office today, while at the same time Coroner Wolff took up his independent inquiry at Evanston.

A subpoena was issued today for Miss Audrey Lonnquist, former wife of Fred Scott, nephew of Walter Dill Scott, president of Northwestern University. Her short lived romance of last January terminated in an annulment at the behest of her parents. She was a student of the University last year. What the state's attorneys office hoped to learn from her was not divulged.

FRENCH ANSWER TO GERMANY IS FLAT REJECTION

Reply Does Not Contain Counter Reparations Proposal

Paris, May 4.—France's reply to the reparations offer of 30,000,000,000 marks by Germany is a flat rejection and does not contain any counter proposals for a basis of future negotiations, it was learned today from an authoritive source. According to newspapers with inside sources of information, the French communication rejects the German proposals point by point.

Lord Crew, the British ambassador, called upon Premier Poincare and told him that, while England approves of France's rejection, the British must insist that France engage in general conversation on the reparations issue.

The British believe Germany may be led to make a better offer later on if France and Belgian will consent to negotiation now.

French foreign officials were engaged today in putting the final touches upon the French reply.

The contents already have been communicated to Belgium. It is likely copies will be transmitted to the other allies tonight and that it will be forwarded to Berlin tomorrow.

Announcement was made at the foreign office this afternoon, that while France and Belgian are in complete accord, they will reply separately to the German offer instead of sending a joint note. It is understood the text to the German offer instead of sending a joint note. It is understood the text of both communications will be virtually similar.

Cologne, May 4.—The French military authorities, straining every nerve to wear down the resistance of the inhabitants of the Ruhr, are daily issuing fresh series of orders against the so-called "passive resisters."

Two new orders were promulgated at Essen. The first declares that all who do not obey the orders of the central commission to deliver coal, coke or any other material within five days are liable to prison for five years and a fine of not less than ten million marks. The penalties also apply to persons hindering the carrying out of the orders of the commission. The second order forbids the publication of any newspaper or periodical without the permission of the French.

The trial of Herr Krupp Von Behlon and the other directors of the Krupp works opened today before a French military court. A charge of conspiracy has been preferred against 10 members of the firm, five of whom were absent at the time of the disturbance on March 31.

START MOVEMENT TO PRESERVE PLAN WHICH MAKES TRIP

San Diego, California, May 4.—A movement to preserve the giant plane in which MacReady and Kelly, aviators made their epochal flight was started today by members of the American Legion when it was reported the ship made its last flight and would be scrapped.

The legion will request the war department to donate the plane to the war exhibit at Balboa Park, San Diego

San Diego friends of Lieutenant MacReady are telling a story of persistency which has won him world fame. MacReady, according to the story, was a student aviator at Rockwell Field in 1916, but seemed unable to qualify as a solo flyer.

After repeated attempts with no better success he faced discharge from the service. Then, one day, he confided to friends as he went up that he was going to conquer the machine or it would conquer him. It was on that flight he qualified. And it was on the same field where he was on the verge of failure that he was handed a telegram from the president of the United States, reading:

"Accept my most cordial congratulations on the success of your record making non-stopped coast to coast successfully completed today.

"Warren Harding."

Another telegram addressed to both fliers as individuals was from General Patrick, chief of the United States Army Air Service. It read:

"Colonel Franklin Kennedy, former executive in the service, wins five thousand on your flight a lot of which he tenders you with his compliments. Wire acceptance immediately Plaza hotel."

The following answer was sent:

"Accept with pleasure if it is not a dream. You know us lieutenants."

"Now I can take that extended leave of absence I've wanted so long," declared Kelly gleefully to Major Arnold, as he read the telegram on the field.

"Anytime you want it," said the major, with a smile, and handed the telegram to Miss Watson, who stood nearby.

Professor Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the department of archeology of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., who has been engaged in archeological investigation of the Cahokia Mounds, near East St. Louis, under the auspices of the University of Illinois, was the guest of his aunt, Miss Emma King, East Main street, Wednesday night.

Professor Moorehead is returning from two months work directing the excavation of the mounds, which he started last year, and which has resulted in a number of the smaller mounds being opened. The archeological party has contented itself with opening most of the smaller mounds but the larger ones thought to contain many valuable relics, will be excavated when the party resumes operations next year.

The Cahokia Mounds are the remains of the largest prehistoric city in the United States, according to W. E. Myer, archeologist, writing for "Science Service." The article reads in part: Unless action is soon taken to preserve these great mounds, he said, the rapid spread of modern factories in the outskirts of this important manufacturing Illinois city may completely efface the ruins of this ancient Indion metroplis, which exceeds in size any other city occupied by prehistoric man in the United States.

"The University of Illinois and also a large number of prominent men throughout Illinois and the adjoining states are very much alive to the importance of having an experienced archeologist like Professor Moorehead to explore carefully and study these great mounds. There is now a bill before the Illinois legislature to appropriate sufficient money to purchase the site of this ancient city and to set it aside as a state park for the pleasure and education of our people forever. They feel that to allow these great mounds to be destroyed would be almost a crime against future generations.

"There are eighty mounds in this great Cahokia group, scattered over an area of about two thousand acres; but the extreme limits of this old city are still unknown. The largest of these mounds, known as the Cahokia Mound, is by far the largest ever raised by prehistoric races within the boundaries of what is now the United States. This mound is about 998 feet long, 710 feet wide and rise above the surrounding country to a height of over 90 feet.

"These vast earthworks probably at one time contained on their summits temples and chiefs' houses and other important structures.

"No accurate estimate can as yet be made as to the date when the mounds were erected or the number of people required to build them. Some of the smaller mounds in this group may possibly be burial mounds, as modern Indians have been known to raise mounds over the bodies of some of their powerful chiefs or over large numbers of their less important dead.

"Several years will be required to complete the exploration of these ruins. Although they have been known to white men for over two hundred years, there has been little intensive exploration of them until the University of Illinois expedition under Professor Moorehead began work in 1921. It is hoped that this expedition, which is now in the field, will unearth sufficient evidence to enable them to determine what ancient Indian tribe erected these great mounds and lived in this large city.

"The builders of these mounds were not a separate race, Mr. Myer added, but were our ancient American Indians. These mounds have been called the Cahokia group because the Cahokias, a small tribe of a few hundred Indians, were found living in the vicinity when the first white explorers came into the region. The Cahokia Indians did not live upon these mounds. They did not and could not have build the anvient city. The Cahokias stated that they found these great ruins of a vanished tribe lying silent and deserted when they first came into the region. No one could tell them who built them or when or why the vast population perished or departed."

CONFER ON WAY TO FINANCE SCHOOL

President Jack O'Bryant, Frank Charles, Howard Miller, and Charles Cline, members of the Board of Education of Jeffersonville Township, at Bowersville, were in Xenia Friday morning conferring with County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman, and Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, in regard to the possibility and feasibility of employing teachers, and drivers, and incurring other necessary expenses, for the Bowersville Centralized School for the coming year.

Members of the Board reported that after the debts for the present year and other running expenses, are paid, that the money in the school treasury will be depleted by September 1. The Board is consequently unwilling to make contracts for the coming year, until more support has been pledged. The Educational Board is considering the advisability of funding the present indebtedness, and securing means to run the school until the November election, although no definite plan was decided upon, at the meeting Friday.

As it now stands, according to County Superintendent of Schools Aultman, the future of the centralized school at Bowersville will largely depend on the resut of the election in November, when a levy will be decided upon.

TEXAS SHIEK OPEN FOR REFINED BRIDE

Baltimore, Mdr., April 18.—Is there a girl in Philadelphia, New York or some other Eastern city near the seat of culture, which is Baltimore who would like to marry a Texas sheik?

If so all she has to do is to write H. P. Reynolds, of Sugarland, Texas, but she had better hurry because indications are that Reynolds will be deluged with offers to marry.

Reynolds, from way down in Sugarland, has appealed to Balitimore police to find him a wife. She must be from the East, he says, "from or near Baltimere". And he wants a "young lady between the ages of 18 and 30," his objections to a widow being nil.

Here is how he describes himself: "I am 24 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 155 pounds. I have blue eyes, brown wavy hair and am considered a good fellow. And last, but least, I possess some means."

Asks Divorce, Saying She Didn't Know She Was Getting Married

Elyria, Ohio —Claiming she did not know she was a party to a marriage ceremony, Tresa Olsowski has answered the petition for divorce filed by John Olsowski, of Lorain. Tresa said she refused to live with John.

Stating that she cannot speak or understand English, Tresa told the court that she spurned his proposal when her husband proposed to her in the union depot at Cleveland. She charged that he then, on the pretext that they were going on sight-seeing tour, took her to the probate court at Cleveland, where hey secured a license and were married later. She said the license and marriage constituted a mystery to her.

Tresa alleged, further, that John shipped her trunk to Lorain and kept it. About $400 worth of clothes were in the trunk she said.

Professor Warren K. Moorehead, curator of the department of archeology of Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., who has been engaged in archeological investigation of the Cahokia Mounds, near East St. Louis, under the auspices of the University of Illinois, was the guest of his aunt, Miss Emma King, East Main street, Wednesday night.

Professor Moorehead is returning from two months work directing the excavation of the mounds, which he started last year, and which has resulted in a number of the smaller mounds being opened. The archeological party has contented itself with opening most of the smaller mounds but the larger ones thought to contain many valuable relics, will be excavated when the party resumes operations next year.

The Cahokia Mounds are the remains of the largest prehistoric city in the United States, according to W. E. Myer, archeologist, writing for "Science Service." The article reads in part: Unless action is soon taken to preserve these great mounds, he said, the rapid spread of modern factories in the outskirts of this important manufacturing Illinois city may completely efface the ruins of this ancient Indion metropolis, which exceeds in size any other city occupied by prehistoric man in the United States.

"The University of Illinois and also a large number of prominent men throughout Illinois and the adjoining states are very much alive to the importance of having an experienced archeologist like Professor Moorehead to explore carefully and study these great mounds. There is now a bill before the Illinois legislature to appropriate sufficient money to purchase the site of this ancient city and to set it aside as a state park for the pleasure and education of our people forever. They feel that to allow these great mounds to be destroyed would be almost a crime against future generations.

"There are eighty mounds in this great Cahokia group, scattered over an area of about two thousand acres; but the extreme limits of this old city are still unknown. The largest of these mounds, known as the Cahokia Mound, is by far the largest ever raised by prehistoric races within the boundaries of what is now the United States. This mound is about 998 feet long, 710 feet wide and rise above the surrounding country to a height of over 90 feet.

"These vast earthworks probably at one time contained on their summits temples and chiefs' houses and other important structures.

"No accurate estimate can as yet be made as to the date when the mounds were erected or the number of people required to build them. Some of the smaller mounds in this group may possibly be burial mounds, as modern Indians have been known to raise mounds over the bodies of some of their powerful chiefs or over large numbers of their less important dead.

"Several years will be required to complete the exploration of these ruins. Although they have been known to white men for over two hundred years, there has been little intensive exploration of them until the University of Illinois expedition under Professor Moorehead began work in 1921. It is hoped that this expedition, which is now in the field, will unearth sufficient evidence to enable them to determine what ancient Indian tribe erected these great mounds and lived in this large city.

"The builders of these mounds were not a separate race, Mr. Myer added, but were our ancient American Indians. These mounds have been called the Cahokia group because the Cahokias, a small tribe of a few hundred Indians, were found living in the vicinity when the first white explorers came into the region. The Cahokia Indians did not live upon these mounds. They did not, and could not have build the anvient city. The Cahokias stated that they found these great ruins of a vanished tribe lying silent and deserted when they first came into the region. No one could tell them who built them or when or why the vast population perished or departed."

C. Aultman, and Prosecuting Attorney J. Kenneth Williamson, in regard to the possibility and feasibility of employing teachers, and drivers, and incurring other necessary expenses, for the Bowersville Centralized School for the coming year.

Members of the Board reported that after the debts for the present year and other running expenses, are paid, that the money in the school treasury will be depleted by September 1. The Board is consequently unwilling to make contracts for the coming year, until more support has been pledged. The Educational Board is considering the advisability of funding the present indebtedness, and securing means to run the school until the November election, although no definite plan was decided upon, at the meeting Friday.

As it now stands, according to County Superintendent of Schools Aultman, the future of the centralized school at Bowersville will largely depend on the resut of the election in November, when a levy will be decided upon.

TEXAS SHIEK OPEN FOR REFINED BRIDE

Baltimore, Mdr., April 18.—Is there a girl in Philadelphia, New York or some other Eastern city near the seat of culture, which is Baltimore who would like to marry a Texas sheik?

If so all she has to do is to write H. P. Reynolds, of Sugarland, Texas, but she had better hurry because indications are that Reynolds will be deluged with offers to marry.

Reynolds, from way down in Sugarland, has appealed to Balitimore police to find him a wife. She must be from the East, he says, "from or near Baltimere". And he wants a "young lady between the ages of 18 and 30," his objections to a widow being nil.

Here is how he describes himself: "I am 24 years old, 5 feet 11 inches tall, weigh 155 pounds. I have blue eyes, brown wavy hair and am considered a good fellow. And last, but least, I possess some means."

Asks Divorce, Saying She Didn't Know She Was Getting Married

Stating that she cannot speak or understand English, Tresa told the court that she spurned his proposal when her husband proposed to her in the union depot at Cleveland. She charged that he then, on the pretext that they were going on sight-seeing tour, took her to the probate court at Cleveland, where hey secured a license and were married later. She said the license and marriage constituted a mystery to her.

Tresa alleged, further, that John shipped her trunk to Lorain and kept it. About $400 worth of clothes were in the trunk she said.

THE SUPREME COURT OVERRULES ATTORNEY GENERAL DAUGHERTY.

The Supreme Court has decided that John Barleycorn may hail an American ship outside the three-mile figure, obtain passage and reign again in the smoke room as the merry teller of tales and seller of pools on the day's run. He may take aboard all his old playmates of the steward's shelf, but he cannot bring them —legally—into the territorial waters of the United States, even on a foreign vessel. Veritably, he must be an old man of the sea.

For the Supreme Court ruled that Attorney General Daugherty was all wrong when he said the prohibition against the sale and transportation of intoxicating beverages followed the flag anywhere on the high seas. It follows only to the three-mile limit, but inside that territorial precinct no ship, American or foreign, may convey alcoholic liquors in any form. In that Mr. Daugherty was right.

The effect of the court's order is to test the ingenuity of American and foreign ships with respect to disposing of unsold prohibited liquors on inbound voyages and of taking them aboard on the outward trips. It leaves to Secretary Hughes the troubles of pacifying the diplomatic representatives of France, Italy and Portugal whose nationals are guaranteed liquors with their meals when signing up on the vessels of these countries.

The Supreme Court tosses onto President Harding's desk a question of policy that is not the most pleasant he could have there. The law says it is all right to sell liquors somewhat stronger than 1 per cent of alcohol. Privately owned American ships may do as they please about it, but the President must determine as a matter of policy whether he will permit such sale aboard Government-owned vessels.

CHESTER PROJECT SIGNED AT ANGORA.

A convention putting into effect the railway development and mining concessions granted by the Turkish Government to the American syndicate headed by Rear Admiral Colby M. Chester, retired, was signed Monday at Angora. The Turkish Minister of Public Works affixed his signature for the Government and Clayton Kennedy for the promoting corporation.

Commander Arthur T. Chester, retired, a son of Rear Admiral Chester, also signed the document on behalf of the American syndicate.

Announcement of ratification by the Turkish Nationalist Assembly of the Chester railway and mining convention was made at Angora on April 10. Intense interest was aroused by the announcement that an American enterprise had been successful in obtaining development rights of such magnitude.

Opposition to anything in the grant that might conflict with the rights of the nations of other countries which had made commercial or development agreements with the Turks has been strongly in evidence since, notably from French and British quarters, and the subject of the concessions has been already a topic of considerable informal discussion at the renewed Lausanne Near East Peace Conference.

While the agency message from Constantinople gives no details, it seems probable that the agreement between the Turkish Government and the Chester syndicate has been put in final and formal terms.

BEING A BOY.

One of the best things about the Boy Scout movement is that it makes clear to young boys, and old ones as well, that the business of being a boy means being a good son and brother as well as a good citizen.

That boys will be boys was once taken to mean that, if the youth of the race run wild or are destructive, that is but what we must expect from those who, according to Aristotle, are the hardest of all wild beasts to tame. The modern lad has every encouragement to learn that politeness, truthfulness, fidelity to duty and other qualities of the sort are perfectly compatible with the joy of living and the natural freedom of childhood. Being a boy need not mean boorish unmannerliness, and consideration for the rights of others is entirely compatible with the juvenile notion of a good time.

The man who most vividly remembers his boyhood is he who keeps youngest, and the best way to recapture youth is to be friends with the youthful. If, as Wordsworth tells us, the boy is father to the man, let the man reciprocate and sympathize, and let son or nephew know that he understands the perplexing trail; that he went over the same ground, and through the same dark forests years ago. Boy Week is a good time not merely for the boy to celebrate, but for the man to reaffirm his faith in what he beheld in the sunrise of his own life.

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

MANICURE SCISSORS

One of the most useful implements invented is the little pair of manicure scissors which every women possesses. Its much too useful, for it tempts one to keep the edges of the nails smooth by cutting away the little pieces of skin that collect and grown down over the nail. It's so much easier to cut off this skin than to keep it pressed back gently into place for it is cut smoothly the nails look well for abot a week and need not be touched, whereas the orangewood stick must be used once or twice a day to keep them nice looking otherwise.

The various cuticle removers on the market are a boom to the women who cannot afford the time or expense of a professional manicurist. These remove the dead skin from the nail and in most cases give a smooth finish without any further trouble. However, great care must be taken, for these, which are only diluted oxalic acid, are very drying, and in the end will make this tender skin rough and dry. Whenever a cuticle remover is used, the fingers should be scrubbed thoroughly with warm water, soap and a small brush after the dead skin has been scraped away. Then a little cream should be rubbed thoroughly into the nails and around them and allowed to stay on several minutes.

There are times, of course, when manicure scissors must be used, even the cuticle remover will leave jagged ends, and it will never get out the odd bits of skin that collect on each side of the nail in those little corners where the nail grows out of the flesh. But do not overdo the manicure scissors habit. Cuticle, cut too often, will grow tough and unsightly.

The chief thing to remember in taking care of the nails is to feed them well with oil or cold cream and to push back the cuticle each time after the hands are washed.

Today's Talk

I like to be missed—and I like to miss those I love. Because then I know that I have given out something and in return I have received something.

And when I lie down at night and think during the last few minutes before I am lost in sleep, and can recall things I have done, or something I have said that has made someone else happier, then I know that my life has not been lived in vain.

It's a good thing to keep testing your life to see if it is measuring up.

I see that my car is kept in smooth running order. I have it inspected regularly. For I use it daily to take me back and forth from work and to give pleasure to others. I see no reason why this life of our should not receive as good attention.

What an inspiring thing an active, thoughtful, helpful, useful life is!

If we keeping test out our abilities and talents, we come to know just how strong we are, but that is not all. As we find out that we are strong, we learn that we can become stronger. That is the wonderful fact about life.

If a man does not put himself to a thorough test every day, how is he going to know how strong he is? And if he doesn't know how to walk past Failure, how is he to face Success?

Keep testing your life. Keep learning new things about it. Find out exactly just what you are able to make out of it.

THREE ADDRESSES FEATURE W. C. T. U. INSTITUTE THURSDAY

Three addresses, and a complete outline of work, featured the County Institute of the Greene County W. C. T. U. during three session, at the Presbyterian Church at Yellow Springs, Thursday. The principal speakers were Mrs. Viola D. Romans, state vice president of the W. C. T. U., Senator S. D. Fess, of Yellow Springs and Dean Phillip C. Nash, of Antioch College. Other speakers during the day included Mrs. Carrie Flatter, county president of the W. C. T. U. and professor H. C. Aultman, county superintendent of schools.

The morning program of the institute was devoted to plans of work in the various departments, with special stress laid on membership. The county organization will make an effort to double the enrollment, by the plan of every woman in the Union securing at least one new member, the one who secures 50 new members, to have her expenses paid to the State and National W. C. T. U. Convention, at Columbus in September. During the discussion Mrs. Walter L. Dean, outlined the progress of the Christian Citizenship Department in the county organization, while Mrs. Romans told of the work in the state.

The standard of the school work in Greene County, and the importance of the relation of the parents and teachers, were stressed by County Superintendent of Schools, H. C. Aultman, in his address.

W. C. T. U. workers were urged not to rest on their laurels, in the prohibition fight, by Mrs. Romans who declared that the fight had only begun. The woman were urged to look to the election of good candidates during the coming election, which will be the worst in the country's history, between the wets and drys, according to the speaker. Mrs. Romans spoke of the necessity of scientific temperance instruction and the effect of narcotics in the public schools.

Mrs. Flatter, county president, gave an interesting talk on "Why the Cigarette Campaign," dwelling on different research work, that showed the effect of narcotic and liquor, on the human body.

A tribute to women, was paid by Dean Nash of Antioch, in his statement that woman is a born executive, and is given initiative to carry out her plan of work, in his compliment to the success of the W. C. T. U. workers, Dean Nash gave a detailed account of the co-operative plan of education being followed at Antioch, describing the system of budgeting of the pupils' allowance, and the specializing in the various departments of work.

Prospects are for an enrollment of 500 at Antioch during next year's term, are seen according to Dean Nash. Plans are being made by alumni of the school to erect a dormitory at the college, he said.

Following the afternoon and evening session, banquets were served, toasts interspersing the program at the evening hour. The following responded, Professor Aultman, "Learning," the Rev. Mr. Coleman, "Law Enforcement," Mrs. M. R. Snodgrass "Health," and Mrs. A. W. Jamieson, "Suffrage."

Dr. Fess discussed the Volstead law, in his address, paying a tribute to Roy Haynes, National Prohibition Enforcement official. He said that the only change he would make in the 18th amendment would be that of strengthening it. Speaking of the three-mile limit, for ships carrying liquor, Senator Fess said that in his opinion, wherever the American flag floated, was American soil. He said that Ohio is leading other states of the union, in the law enforcement.

The following resolutions were adopted during the institute session: First; "We should begin now to look up candidates that will be before us this fall, that those selected may be persons capable, conscientious, and courageous. Second, We place ourselves on record as favoring the placing of women on our schoolboards. Third, That we double our present membership before the state and national convention by each member securing at least one new member. Fourth, to urge specific action against the use of cigarette, and the enforcement of all narcotic laws. Fifth, We protest against any ship carrying any intoxicating liquor, that floats the United States flag. Sixth, That we co-operate with all agencies for Child Welfare, and urge that scientific temperance instruction be continued in the curriculum of our schools Seventh. We favor the daily reading of selections from the Bible, in public schools, and also the endorsement of a vocational Bible School.

Music during the day included a solo by Mrs. Raymond Wolf, and Mrs. Swinnerton, with Mrs. Frank Watkin, at piano.

The month of May is scheduled as membership month, on the state calendar of the W. C. T. U.

ALLEGED WINK CAUSES JUDGE TO GRILL JUROR

Missoula, Mont., May 4.—Winks are mischievous little things but often lead to mnor troubles, but when passed between a juror and defendant in a court room it seems they at once take on a serious and significant character. At least that may be inferred from the reprimand given Juror Leighton Stewart by Judge Theodore Lentz in District Court here after Stewart had been accused of winking at Sam Mercer on trial for the alleged sale of intoxicating liquor. Later the jury returned a verdict of not guilty.

Mercer was arrested when a resort was raided by city and county authorities. The mysterious disappearance of two Fort Missoula soldiers, material witnesses in the case, proved a serious handicap to the prosecution. The defense was able to establish an alibi for Mercer, witnesses testifying that he was at the fort at the time of the raid.

As the jury filed out of the courtroom, former Sheriff George A. Cole leaped to his feet, rushed to the judge's bench and cried, in a loud voice:

JURY CALLED BACK

"Hold the jury Judge, hold the jury! That man winked at Sam Mercer as he passed out!"

Instantly the courtroom was in an uproar. Judge Lentz rose to his feet and demanded:

"Who was it winked?"

"There's the juror!" shouted the former sheriff, leveling an accusing finger at Stewart.

"Call the jury back!" commanded the Court.

When the panel had been seated defense counsel registered a protest against the charge and the calling back of the jury, claiming that it was out of line with the usual court procedure. Judge Lentz firmly waved aside the protest, demanding of Cole his evidence on the winking charge.

"This man saw him wink at Mercer!" declared the ex-sheriff.

He brought forward W. A. Fredericks, a Federal operative, who corroborated Cole's statement.

"What was the juror?' demanded the Court.

Cole again pointed at Stewart.

"Did you see that juror wink at the defendant?" questioned the Court.

"I did," replied Fredericks.

"Take the stand and be sworn," ordered the judge.

On his oath the Federal man testified that he had seen Stewart drop out of the jury line, lean toward the defendant and slowly drop an eyelid.

JURYMAN DENIES IT

The Court then summoned Juror Stewart to th stand. Under oath he swore that he did not wink at Mercer; that involuntarily he might have batted an eye as he passed out of the courtroom.

Judge Lentz deliberated over the unusual charge for some time before giving his decision.

It was quiet in the courtroom, very quiet, when he explained, after asking if anyone else in the courtroom had witnessed the alleged wink, that it was a case of one man's word against another, advising the jurors to disregard the incident and to discharge their official duty as if it had not occurred.

The Court reprimanded Juror Stewart, saying: Had I seen you wink at the defendant you would not be sitting on this jury now, for I would have found a way to take care of vuo. That is an act of contempt not to be overlooked by this Court, and it would have been within my province to punish you severely."

GARDEN CLUB WILL BEAUTIFY BRIDGES MEMBERS DECIDE

The first meeting of The Xenia Garden Club was held Thursday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. Charles Kelble on West Church St., and the new organization reports forty paid members. Miss Kate Schweibold was elected secretary of the organization.

The group of enthusiastic workers presented at the meeting perfected plans for the beautifying of the bridges about the city by the use of flower boxes. Superintendent Barver of the O. S. and S. O. Home has offered to contribute the flowers and the boxes will be bought with club funds.

Mrs. Marshall Wolf is chairman of the committee to attend to the matter of securing and placing the boxes.

Neatly printed signs bearing the flower slogan, "Xenia grows Zinnias," will be placed at the approaches to the city.

The club members are paying special attention to beautiying the unsightly spots about the city and any one knowing of such places is asked to report them to the club. The club has already planted six flower beds about the old dump on Xenia Avenue and Castor Beans have been planted to serve as a screen for the dump. Similar work will be done on all the ugly and neglected sites about the city.

Another meeting of the club will be held next week, the time and place to be announced later, and it is hoped that by that time at least one hundred persons will be enrolled.

It is the desire of the club to have practically all of the residents of city as members. The dues are 25c a year and members have the advantage of wholesale rates when buying seeds.

LABOR DEARTH IN U. S. MIGHT -- HELP ENGLAND

London, May 4.—America's labor shortage may prove a part solution of England's unemployment problem.

The British government is investigating labor conditions in the United States, particularly with regard to a shortage of skilled labor, Sir Montague but the Ministry of Labor informed International News Service. It is not likely that the British government will take any official action to encourage England's unemployed to migrate to the United States but the Minister of Labor undoubtedly will make known the results of is inquiries to those who may be interested and who see emigration as the solution of their problem.

SCHWAB OFFERS SOLUTION

When Charles Schwab was in London recently he said that he was greatly impressed by the pitiful conditions brought about by unemployment and he suggested that the United States and its industries undoubtedly could absorb a portion of the unemployed of England. The steel magnate stated that in his own industries there was an appreciable shortage of skilled labor and he felt that some of England's unemployed might find work if they were able to finance the trip to the United States.

While the number of unemployed in England fluctuates from month to month it has remained sufficiently near to the two-million mark to convince many experts that there can be no solution of the problem unless there is a more even distribution of the population. Either the people must leave the city centers and go to the country districts or to the colonies, or there must be continual unemployment. With this in mind the government has taken many steps to equalize distribution of populaton.

WON'T GO TO THE COUNTRY

Efforts to hire city dwellers for country and suburban employment have not been very successful for the city dwellers are uninclined to leave their city homes and the surroundings to which they have become accustomed today.

A similar fate was met by efforts to induce emigration to the colonies. While the Government puts up a loud cry that the colonies are in need of settlers the emigration to the colonies has been very small.

Negotiations are now in progress between the British Ministry of Labor and the French Minister of Devastated Areas in an effort to obtain work in the rebuilding of the devastated areas for unemployed British workmen. The success of these negotiations is still in doubt.

LABOR UNIONS OBJECT

Efforts which the Government has made to produce a more even distribution of labor have been somewhat hampered by the attitude of labor organizations, some of which maintain that there is no necessity for emigration if conditions in England are restored to normal.

The British emigration to the United States has been comparatively light this year, and on March 1 England was still nearly 30,000 below her permissible quota under the immigration laws.

It appears that the 'tight little isle" is still home to the English workingman, whether he is employed or not and if he can't get employment in England he would rather suffer discomforts than to migrate—and particularly to a "dry" land."

Unemployment for years to come seems to be a certainty facing England.

PIT "OLD TIME" PUPIL AGAINST "MODERN" KIND

Sacramento, May 4.—Governor Richardson's theory that California's modern institutions of learning have failed to maintain the record established by the little red school houses of two decades ago is to be put to the test.

Instead of contenting himself with a denial of the Governor's charge against the modern school, Will C. Wood, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, seeks to prove its falsity by a contest between students of the old and new schools.

Fifteen of California's leading business men, disciples of the 'old school' are to be pitted against an equal number of high school seniors, representatives of the new mode of education. If Governor Richardson covets the $100 prize which will go to the winner of the contest he is eligble and welcome, says Wood.

Here is Wood's announcement of the contest:

"Through the courtesy of an anonymous donor I am authorized to arrange for one of the most interesting contests in the history of the State. A prize of $100 is offered to the winner in this contest of the young against the middle-aged people of California in reading, writing, spelling and the use of English. Any community in California having a population of 15,000 or more is eligible to enter the contest. If more than one community applies selection will be by lot.

"Following is the plan of the contest:

"The names of all members of the Chamber of Commerce of community who are forty years of age or over and who got their education in American public schools over twenty-five years ago are to be written on slips of paper and put in a box. From the box the names of fifteen members are to be drawn. The men whose names are drawn will represent the Chamber of Commerce in the contest.

"In a similar manner the names of fifteen prospective graduates of the community high school are to be selected by lot.

"Not more than two minutes before the contest begins the president of the Chamber of Comerce and the high school principal are to select a page from Emerson's Essays to be dictated to the contestants. The contestants are to write what is dictated, paying careful attention to spelling, sentence arrangement, paragraphic capitalization and punctuation. The paprs to be scored by professors of English at the University of California and Stanford University.

WINNER TO GET PRIZE

"The winner of the contest is to receive the prize offered.

"I have chosen the Chamber of Commerce for the contest because this body presumably represents the more successful member sof the community. I have limited the contest to men forty years of age or better because I want the adult contestants to represent the old-time teaching which we are told, "stressed the fundamentals." The representatives of the Chamber of Commerce cannot send their stenographers as proxies in the contest.

"We have heard a great deal about the success of the old-time teaching and the failure of the new. What is needed is a clear demonstration of the facts. Of course, the older folks will have the advantage of years. Presumably they have learned something since they left school. However, we shall waive that question and give them the advantage of their years. May the better team win!

Wood also plans a contest in reading between the "old-timers" and children in the sixth grade. The contests will be public.

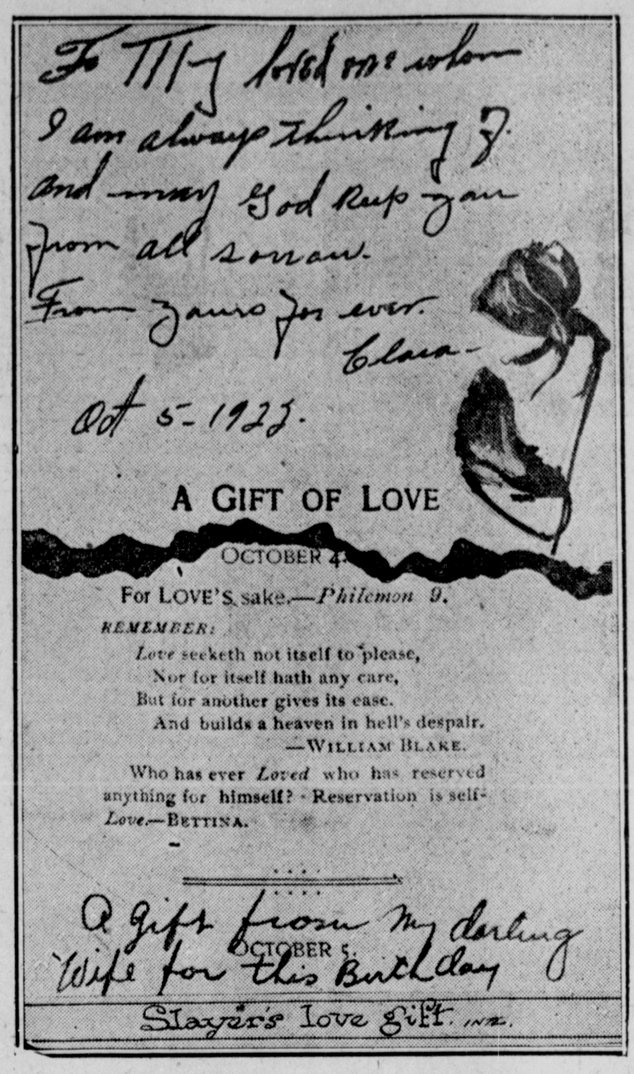
SMALLEST ARMY IN EUROPE HAS BUT 500 TROOPS

Brussels, May 4.—Europe's tiniest army has been discovered.

The Grand Duchy of Luxembourg recently announced it was about to put into effect a reorganization of its army which would double the strength of its military forces. In uninformed circles the fear arose that this might forecast fresh disurbances in turbulent Europe.

The fear subsided, however, when it was learned that the increased army will include only 500 men. Its equipment is so scant that when a baby was born to the Grand Duchess a few weeks ago the army had to borrow guns from France before it could fire the salute required by custom to herald the new arrival.

HAMMER-SLAYER'S LOVE TOKEN



Clara Phillips, brutal "stone age" murderer of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, whom she beat to death with a hammer in Los Angeles, was turned over to the police by her husband, Armour Phillips, oil promoter, who is now accused of having aided her in her flight from the Los Angeles jail, where she was serving a life term. Mrs. Phillius is believed to be under arrest in Tegucigalpa, Honduras. For a time she was bitter against her husband, but this "love token" seized when Phillips was arrested, showed that she had forgiven him. The "love token" is made up of pages from a book and shows curiously sentimental thoughts for a woman of so depraved a character.

Atlanta, Ga., May 4.—Is jelly making a serious menace to woman citizenship?

Mrs. Percey V. Pennybacker, of Austin, Texas, chairman of the department of American citizenship in the General Federation of Women's Clubs, believes it is. Not in itself, of course, but because it permits one more petty excuse on woman's part for dodging the solemn responsibility and glorious privilege of the ballot.

The three things that women of America most need to do to become better citizens and more intelligent voters, in Mrs. Pennybacker's opinion, are to read, to talk and to think. Yes, sir! To talk!

"Women do not talk enough," Mrs. Pennybacker declares. "By that I mean they do not discuss important questions of the day. The casting of a ballot is the expression of an opinion. One cannot have an intelligent opinion unless he or she knows the facts. Women waste time upon pretty things that should be spent obtaining facts.

"To build a real opinion three steps are necessary: First, reading. We read to obtain facts, and we have no right to read only one side of a question. The second step toward becoming informed is to talk with many men and women of many minds in many walks of life. However, we may read and talk eternally without having done our whole duty.

"The third step necessary to good citizenship is to think. Have you noticed how few people are willing to go off alone and dig clear down into the fundamentals of their own consciousness, to make their own opinions pass in review, to challange each one before the bar of reason and conscience? Yet we must think things out for ourselves and then make our opinions articulate, for even silent thought does not fill the service America asks of us.

Mrs. Pennybacker, who on May 8 will address club women of America in council assembled here, will put before them some of the dangers facing the country today and which, she declares, demand the newly enfranchised no longer dodge.

Mrs. Pennybacker will remind the clubwomen that Mrs. Loumans, a distinguished woman of Wisconsin, was defeated in her state primaries "because the women didn't vote. They said it was too hot. They were making jelly." All of which resulted in Mrs. Youmans getting 55 votes in a village where she had been promised 150.

Mrs. Pennybacker deplores the attempt to destroy the primaries, which she holds, are a real step toward pure democracy, even the imperfect.

"But alas!" she admits, "as practiced today, the primary system is, indeed, open to critisim — when bosses of both parties fight a system, thinking freemen will generally find good in that system Let our task be, then, to help improve, not destroy the primary."

Wrong campaign tactics of today are, in Mrs. Pennybacker's opinion, one reason for young people's lack of reverence for those in authority. "If youth lacks respect," says she, "age is to blame."

"Childen are listening," she warns. "In our talk about public affairs how often we indulge in ties against public officials. From the president down to the constable no one escapes. What idea are your children receiving of respect due those in authority.

Respect for authority, respect for law, and respect for enforcement of the law are necessary in the development of good citizenship, Mrs. Pennybacker points out, deploring the modern tendency of the public, the press and the screen to sympathize with the lawbreaker, especially the violator of the eighteenth amendment to the Federal Constitution.

"The law is the judgment of the community as to what is necessary, and when it ceases to accord with public needs the law itself prescribes how it may be changed. Whenever a citizen in public or private life breaks the law, however, he substitutes his own judgment for the judgment of the community. Who claims for himself at his own pleasure the right to break the law opens the door to disorder, riot and demoralized citizenship."

ANNOUNCE MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE FOR LOCAL PLAYGROUND

Completion of a temporary organization which it is hoped to build the Community Recreation Association of Xenia, was announced Thursday by H. H. Schueler, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, who has left Xenia, after a week here in the interests of the proposed playground centers for this city.

The personnel of the temporary committee consists of: Edwin M. Woodward, Chairman; C. W. Murphy, S. O. Hale, S. M. McKay, C. H. Little, T. H. Zell, C. E. Arbogust, L. M. Nisbet, Mrs. Harrison Baker, Dr. A. B. Kester, H. S. LeSourd, John R. Beacham, Rev. W. H. Tilford, G. E. Hudson, Miss Rose Berry, Mrs. M. L. Wolf, Mrs. Lois Olcott, Miss Margaret Steele and P. H. Flynn.

With the arrival here of F. H. Young, of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, about the middle of May, activities will be started looking toward the consummation of the playground project, the latter part of June, it is announced by those interested in the movement. Mr. Young, who spent some time here during the spring working on the plan, wil take charge of the work remaining here until the settlement of the movement.

Present plans call for the location of four playgrounds, situated at strategic points over the city, sites for which have not yet been selected. The campaign for funds will start shortly after Mr. Young's arrival, and an attempt will be made to raise $1,500 which it is estimated will be sufficient to equip the centers pay the salary of a physical instructor and that of four assistants for the three months' period.

Cooperation with the Board of Education whereby the physical instructor hired by the board for the schools, shall give nine months' of his time to the school work and the remaining three to the Playground Association, will relieve the latter of the expense of hiring another man, and makes the association responsible for only three months' salary for the requirement.

It is pointed out that a state law requires 100 minutes of physical instruction every week in public schools, making is essential for a city school physical director. This it is said, need not add to the financial budget of the schools, as the employing of a combined physical instructor and athletic coach will meet the requiement.

Mr. Young will stay in Xenia one month, at the end of which time it is hoped that the preparatory work will have been completed, and the playgrounds ready for use. Expenses of the organizer will be defrayed partly by the local association and partly by the organization which he represents. It is estimated that the city's share will be roughly $200.

Agitation for a recreation center started last spring at which time an attempt was made to acquire 47 acres in the Dodds Addition with the aim of developing it into a playground and recreation center for the city. Obstacles in the way of the obtaining of the tract frustrated plans in that direction, and led to the formation of the movement to locate the centers at various parts of the city. This, it is pointed out, will be more convenient to more people than the original idea.

MRS. MARIE RANCK, COLUMBUS, O.

That Ka-di-ok is an effective stomach remedy is proven by the numerous statements given by grateful people who have been benefited by its use. Mrs. Marie Ranck, living at 621 City Park Avenue, in relating her experience with Ka-di-ok, says: "For two years or more I have had severe spells of indigestion, during which time I have had to watch my diet very carefully. I dare not eat bananas, tomatoes and other sour or acid foods, as they always caused me to have pains around my heart afterwards. Sometimes I have suffered the most acute pains simply from drinking a glass of cold water. At times I felt as though I should die as the spells became so frequent and so severe. I lost a lot of weight and was very weak and nervous. I tried different remedies, but without getting results until I took Ka-di-ok and have not had a single spell since I took the first bottle. I eat all the food that disagreed with me before and never feel bad from it. I have taken, all told, seven bottles of Ka-di-ok and have gained fifteen pounds in weight and am now perfectly well in every respect. From my personal experience I highly endorse Ka-di-ok as a grand stomach medicine."

Ka-di-ok can be obtained at Sayre & Hemphill's Drug Store, Xenia.

ILLUSTRATES CHURCH TALK TO CHILDREN

The Rev. W. H. Tilford, of the First Presbyterian Church has inaugureated sleight of hand illustrations, as an interesting feature of the children's party of the Sunday services.

Last Sunday morning, the Rev. Mr. Tilford, gave a five-minute children's sermon, proceeding the regular morning discourse, with an illustration with chemicals, of the different attitudes one can take in life, good and bad. With seven glasses and a crockery pitcher, the speaker illustrated the differences in lives, and how there should be nothing but purity in all.

Next Sunday and the following five Sunday's the Rev. Mr. Tilford will give the following children's talks: May 6, "A child's Heart," May 13, "First Things First," May 20, "Seeing Though God's Eye," May 27, "Taking Out the Heart Spots," or "The Disappearing Black," June 3, "Seek and Ye Shall Find," June 10, "Children's Day." The Rev. Mr. Tilford will also enter into a variety of illustrations among them the Magic Multiplying Slate and The Making of the Flag."

Mrs. Gasson was hurled far away, and her little baby, Ruth, three years old, was torn from her arms. The baby actually fell into the speeding automobile. Miller did not stop, and it was the discovery of the baby, uninjured, in his home, that led to his arrest. He admits the double killing.

DEAD AT BIRTH, LIFE RESTORED BY ADRENALIN.

Miller baby. INTL.

Official announcement has been made at the Ann May Hospital, in Spring Lake, New Jersey, of the case of a baby, born seemingly dead, which revived by four injections of adrenalin into the heart muscles, after every other known method had failed. The announcement was withheld for two weeks, in order to ascertain if the baby would live. The child, a girl, was born prematurely to Mrs. James Miller, of Belmar, New Jersey, and was declared dead. Artificial respiration failed, and adrenalin was injected into the heart. The baby showed slight action and within a few minutes there was a faint heartbeat. Another injection and then a third followed, and the child functioned normally throughout the night, but next morning was apparently dead again. Again adrenalin was injected and the heart action restored. The child, a girl weighing twenty-one ounces at birth, is now improving rapidly, and the doctors believe she will live. Adrenalin is said to act on the suprerenal glands of the body and

The O. S. and S. O. Home baseball nine defeated Wilmington High School at Wilmington, Wednesday by a 6 to 5 score.

The game was hotly contested and was a fine exhibition of the national pastime. It was the first game for either one of the teams. Both of the pitchers were in a nice shape. Noland who worked on the mound for the Home lads fanned 10, walked two and let the Wilmington baseballers down with five hits. The Home lads supported him nicely making no errors.

Hill twirled for the Wilmington gang and showed fine form. He struck out 17, walked 5 and held the Home bunch to 2 scattered hits. His team did not play very well behind him making costly errors. Lee and Torrence got the only two hits for the Home lads.

Wilmington started things going in the first inning with two out when Barnes got a two bagger and Hill singled left scoring him. Hill stole second and Atchison singled down the first base line scoring Hill. Treft walked. Atchison went down to third without being played for. Wells singled and Atchison scored. Scott fanned for the final out. Coach Black's horsehide tossers came back in the next frame and added another tally. Hale, first man up, fouled out to Brewster. Peele was safe when Schultz dropped his high fly ball to second. Adams whiffed and Peele stole third, and scored on a passed ball. Barnes was out Brewster to Torrence.

The Home scored first in the sixth. Woods, first man up, fanned, Torrence was safe on Barnes's error and stole second. Lewis grounded to Barnes for the second out. Noland walked, Turney walked filling the sacks. Lee hit a bounder to the shortstop who muffed it and Torrence crossed the plate, Waterman hit a fly to Wells who misjudged it and the result was that Noland and Turney scored. Lee going to third. Lee scored on a wild throw by Hill. Waterman was caught at second Hill to Hale for the third out. The Home got two more runs in the eight as result of sloppy playing on the part of Wilmington. Noland, fanned, Turney was safe on Peele's error. Lee walked and Turney stole third. Lee went to second on a balk by Hill. Turney and Lee both stole home.

Wilmington High scored another tally in the final inning. Bonecutter who went in as pinch hitter for Hale was passed up. Peele fanned. Bonecutter stole second, and scored on Adams sacrifice fly. Hill singled but Atchison was out Turney to Torrence.

The lineup:

Home—Torrence 1b, Lewis lf, Noland p, Turney 2b, Lee 3b, Brewster c, Waterman c, F. Lutz, ss, Schultz. Kinner rf.

Wilmington—Peele cf, Adams ss, Barnes 1b, Hill p, Atchison c, Treft 3b, Wells lf, Scott, Hackney rf, Hale 2b, Bonecutter batted for Hale in the ninth.

English Cup Goes To America

Sandwich, England, May 4.—Francis Ouimet, of Boston, today won the play off from Dr. O. F. Willing, of Portland, Oregon, for the St. George's challenge cup in the International Golf tournament.

The match provided a tense finish, Ouimet winning by a single strike at the end of 18 holes, an advantage gained on the opening hole where he took a four against his rival's five. The medal scores were:

Ouimet 77; Dr. Willing 78.

Ouimet's victory caused no surprise in the large gallery that followed the match and intently watched every move of the American, playing for a trophy which had hitherto remained the property of England and Englishmen.

Willing's ability to score in the seventies astonished the British in view of his form. The Portland medico is no stylist but his game was as steady as Gibraltar and his putting sound and sometimes brilliant.

Ouimet, on the other hand, displayed flashy golf. Although he lacked Willing's steadiness, he recovered remarkably well and was always strong on the greens.

Paddock May Be Outlawed

Paris, May 4.—The French Athletic Federation was summoned into special conference this evening to consider action against the Paris university club for allowing Charley Paddock, of Los Angeles, world's champ sprinter to participate in the preliminaries of the international unicersity meet last night. Sport experts fear that the university club and participants, including Paddock will be outlawed. The French Athletic Federation cabled to the Amateur Athletic Union of America for permission for Paddock to complete but the university club did not wait for a reply.

The French organization issued a communique saying that "a delicate situation in international sports has been created.

Sophomores Lead Juniors

Baseball games between the Junior and Sophomores classes of Central High School are played on the order of a six-day bicycle race.

The teams got together at Washington St. Park, Thursday afternoon and began their installment-plan game. In two and one-half innings the athletes had piled up a total score that sounded enough for two full-time games.

Hostilities were suspended because of darkness at the termination of the first half of the third inning, and the beligerents called a truce until Friday evening when the performers hope to squeeze in enough baseball to fill out a minimum game of five innings. They play an inning down and an inning a week like a mail-order furniture house. Sophomores were leading 10 to 5 when the game was called.

The pastiming was scheduled as one of the games that will decide the class championship of the school. If other class teams stage their games in sections like Thursday afternoon's set-to, the games are going to cut into the football season.

BOOZE PUTS MILD COWS ON WARPATH

Popular Bluff Mo., May 4. — There was a merry jingle of cowbells, and for a long time Judge R. M. Wagner thought his stock, as in the nursery rhyme, were going to essay hurdling the moon.

Five head of the judge's best and, under normal conditions, most docile cows came home the other night staggering and bellowing.

The judge went to console them, but when he appeared the faithful old cows mimicked their male brethren and placed him in the role of a toreador. The cows charged but the judge made a hasty escape from the enraged animals.

The cows, it was found, had strayed off in the neighborhood and imbibed of some moonshine mash. One cow died, another went blind, and three others are "sobering up" from their little party.

Illicit Whiskey Found in Farmer's Milk Cans

Mare, Mass., May 4. — Five gallons of moonshine liquor, concealed in milk cans, were seized from a milk cart by police and John Pubgaski a farmer, was arrested. Search of the farm where Pubgalski lives resulted in the discovery of a large still in op-

ENGLISH PURSES TO BE KEENLY AFFECTED BY BUDGET FIGURES- TO BE ANNOUNCED ON MONDAY

London, May 4.— There are days of great anticipation for citizens of Great Britain.

On Monday the most interesting event of the governmental years will take place. Chancellor of the Exchequer Stanley Baldwin will announce the budget for 1923-24. Every British pocketbook will be affected by the announcement, and the man in the street is today holding his breath wondering whether his pocketbook is going to be further burdened or relieved.

The provisions of the budget are being guarded with the closest secrecy. Every newspaper writer is making his own forecast and everyone who knows anyone in any remote way connected with the Government is giving an "inside tip", but the real secret won't be out until Monday afternoon.

The budget for 1922-23 shows a surplus of approximately $500,000,000. What is the Chancellor of the Exchequer going to do with that surplus? That is the question upon which the hopes and fears of the British people hang.

If the Chancellor decides to use the surplus for current purposes in order to remit taxes and lighten the burden of the individual taxpayer, his budget will be popular. If it is decided to use the surplus for payment of the Government's debts the budget will be unpopular, but the fiscal position of Great Britain will be strengthened.

The chances are that the Chancellor will seek to steer a middle course and will make some slight remissions in taxes, but will also use a large part of the surplus for the sinking fund, the funding of debts and pensions.

The vital taxes are these:
Income tax.
Tax upon tea.
Tax upon beer.
Tax upon sugar.

If the Chancellor can arrange to reduce these taxes slightly his popularity will be assured. A reduction of the income tax would please the upper classes, a reduction of the beer tax would win over the lower classes, and the tea and sugar tax reductions ould appeal to every class.

What the Chancellor will do is still a mystery, but his life these days is no easy one.

"I am being hunted like a hart upon the mountains," the Chancellor said. "I have no peace from morning until night. I walk at six miles an hour through the lobby of the House of Commons to get away from those footfalls which always seem to be behind me, from those earnest souls who have schemes to tell me how to redeem the American debt in five years, who wish to tell me what taxes can be removed and what my duty is in every department of the budget.

"I am very anxious to have what is called a popular budget. I am not myself a believer in brilliancy or imagination in finance."

The Chancellor is having a strenuous week end. The fortunes of the Government may depend upon his announcement on Monday.

PARIS CITY ZOO GOING TO RUIN- NEEDS REPAIRS

Paris, May 4.— The few lonely animals that are left in the Paris Zoo will soon have to find a new home unless the municipolity is willing to donate a few hundred thousand thousand francs to replenish the cages and put things in good order that have been uncared for since 1914.

M. Fernand Laurent, Curator of the Jardin d'Acclimatation, reports to the Paris City Council that his zoo is a zoo in name only.

He has but a few animals and those are of ordinary species found in any city of importance.

"The Winter Garden," says M. Laurent, "which was built to be warm in winter and cool in summer, is neither one nor the other.

It will take at least one hundred thousand francs to put this famous resort into shape. The Palm Court is now only a court. The glass roof is minus. It rains inside as well as out.

The palms and ferns have long ago died or frozen. The Bird Gallery is almost non-existent, with only two birds of paradise, which I had hoped would bred only to find that they are both males.

"The Aquarium has become the Bear Cave. I have three bears installed there, but they are old and toothless.

We are at present finishing a pool for a hippopotamus, but I haven't the least idea when we'll get the hippopotamus .If, before the war a swan could be purchased for one hundred and fifty francs and today costs three thousand five hundred francs, what will a hippopotamus cost?"

In M. Laurent's report to the City Council he states it would be better to turn the entire Zoo into a park, tear down the buildings and make walks and flower beds and benches, leaving one of the buildings standing, and convert it into a theater, making it free to the public.

No more Rheumatism

Suffering has gone from your face, mother!"

S. S. S. Is the Great Builder of Red-Blood-Ceils and Rheumatism Must Go! Just Try It!

"Rheumatism? Me? No, indeed, it's all gone, every bit of it! It's sunshine and joy for me now for the first time in years. I feel a wonderful glory again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I look at my hands and think of the twists and swellings they used to have. I bend way over to the floor. I haven't been able to do that in many years. I can thank S. S. S. for it all! To me it was a rising sun of joy and liberty. Brothers and sisters in misery, do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. It is here and now for all of you. S. S. S. is waiting to help you." There is a reason why S. S. S. will help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood-strength. Blood which is minus sufficient red-cells leads to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them. S. S. S. is the great blood-cleanser, blood-builder, system strengthener, nerve invigorator. It stops skin eruptions, too, pimples, blackheads, acne, boils, eczema. It builds up run down, tired men and women, beautifies complexions, makes the flesh firmer. Start S. S. S. today. It is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Rheumatism is no respector of age, sex color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness sorenes and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. adv

CO-EDS T OSTUDY WORLD'S POLITICS

Syracuse, N. Y., May 4.—Determined to fit themselves for entrance into politics on an equal footing with men, after graduation, co-eds of Syracuse University are organizing a congress in which they debate current questions.

The new woman's body will be formed by representatives elected by the various sororities, rooming houses clubs and class organizations.

It will be patterned after the National Women's Congress, and the members will consider such vital questions as the program of the National Women's Party, aims of the League of Women Voters, social and child legislation, minimum wages for women and the proposals of the Consumers' League.

DON'T TRY THIS ON TRAFFIC COP

Atlanta, Ga., May 4.—Motorcycle policemen run against some peculiar incidents in "line of duty," and as a result of one of these E. P. Burton found himslef with a summons to appear under a charge of bribery.

The motor cop, W. M. Weaver, spurred his trusty steed rather viciously after a speeding "flivver" a few nights ago and overtook the vehicle which stopped at his signal.

J. W. Welch, the driver, was given a copy of charges for exceeding the speed limit and his passenger, Burton ,in an attempt to straighten matters out, got himself in "dutch" according to the policeman.

After the matter was all straightened out, to the satisfaction of the law, Burton is alleged to have said: "Why can't we settle this thing right now?"

According to the "copper," Burton at this juncture passed over a $2 bill.

The $2 bill was turned in at the station.

Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs

By Mrs. George Elliott McCormick.

Voicing the opinion that the "highest duty and function of the state is to conserve child life," Mrs. Cora C. Cooley, of Cleveland, superintendent of the division of charities for Ohio, and a well-known club woman, recently addressed the Mansfield Federation of Women's Clubs upon her work which is so interwoven with that of federated club women that it forms a big part in all federations.

Child welfare carries an appeal so strong that practically, if not all club federations in the state, now have a welfare department. Mrs. Cooley made such a profound iupression in her Mansfield address that Mrs. Ada Marriott, chairman of the Mansfield federation's welfare department, expresses the hope that all club women in Ohio might hear her. Mrs. Cooley is very busy in her state work of course, but she speaks whenever she finds the time to do so because of her great love of humanity and because of the great many worthy causes crying out to be heard by willing, sympathetic ears such as club women are lending throughout the state.

She touched on the mothers' pension law, declaring that the sum alloted had never been sufficient. The outstanding part of her forceful address dealt with the children. She emphasized one plan for caring for the children who had no one else to care for the — that of committing them to the state. "These children are not taken away from the mother, if she be a fit person," said Mrs. Cooley. "The state boards these unfortunate children with their own mother, if she be a fit person, and the home is supervised so far as the children are concerned and in the end it has actually cost less than maintaining these children in the overcrowded state institutions. In Ohio today there are more than 1,800 yearly—inspected homes in which children are boarded and in which they have a part in the home life."

Clubs and federations electing delegates should forward their names at once to Mrs. Lewis L. La Shell, No. 1303 Oregon avenue, Steubenville, chairman of the credentials committee for the state club convention at Steubenville the week of May 21. Each club of 50 members or less may be represented by its president or her representative and one delegate. Clubs numbering more than 50 members are entitled to a delegate for every additional 50 members up to a membership of 1,200. City or country federations of 10 clubs or less may be represented by two delegates and are entitled to one delegate or additional 20 clubs. Visiting club women will be welcome to the sessions of the convention. They may take part in the discussions, but are excluded from makin motions or voting. Visitors, who are always numerous, must register and receive an admission badge.

Mrs. Louis Burgner, of Oberlin, vice president of the Middle North district, addressed the April meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs at Crestline. She spoke for an hour on club work as it is conducted throughout the world, giving the Crestline women many helpful suggestions for carrying out their own club problems.

"Why should the General Federation of Women's Clubs have headquarters." This is often asked. There is a constantly growing necessity for the great body of club women standing for constructive work to attain more closely combined action and wider understanding. An adequate office is necessary to give this correlation to the efforts of the thousands of clubs throughout the United States. Headquarters is a place where club women can get the help they need at any and all time. It is a place where the motto is, "Never let a club woman ask in vain." A loan library of books and clippings is being built up and when this is finished it will be a great help in program needs for clubs everywhere.

If 2,000,000 club women have the vision to stand together, they must have the vision to maintain suitable headquarters for the General Federation.

NATIONAL GOLD STAR ROADS TO HONOR HEROES

St. Louis, May 4.—After three years of tireless effort the National Society of World War Registrars announces that it has completed the foundation for organization in every State in the Union. The society is composed of blood relatives and wives of World War veterans.

Its first big project is aimed for the establishment of Gold Star Highways to be so routed to help make a continuous thoroughfare from ocean to ocean and from the lakes to the gulf, thus creating a National Gold Star Crossroads system which will intersect at a point near the geographical center of the United States.

These highways will stand as tributes to the gold-star mothers and as monuments to their gold-star sons.

CENTER AT ST. LOUIS.

Being situated geographically as probably the largest center city, a movement has been started to have St. Louis designated as the intersectional point where would be erected a huge "Arch of Freedom" in this city. Each State would be represented by a block of granite in the construction of this central arch.

Missouri was the first State asked to name and dedicate as such memorial highways all recently constructed permanent roads to be built from the State bond issue and Federal aid roads.

Governor Hyde two years ago recommended that no State highway be named until permanently constructed but he now has named, as designated by the State Highway Commissioner, the Kansas City-St. Louis road as the Gold Star Crossroad of Missouri.

ALL STATES INVITED.

Every Governor and Highway Commissioner in every State of the Union has been asked by the World War Registrars to pay a similar tribute to their gold-star mothers and their fallen sons. In the appeal to the various States it also has been urged that the highways so designated shall lead in the direction of and converge in a central city of the United States, thus creating a nation-wide "Gold Star Monument."

The majority of States have endorsed the project, and a number of them have designated roads leading toward St. Louis.

It is planned at various intervals, preferably at points where roads converge and where the various State roads meet, to mark the highways by the erection of arches or pillars.

The society hopes to have all the roads lined with trees suitable to the climate, each to bear a gold colored metal star bearing the name of a veteran, his rank, organization, etc., the plan to be carried out until all veterans who died in the service from each community shall have a marker dedicated to his memory.

EYE IS INJURED

Mrs. James Laurens of the Richland neighborhood, is suffering from a peculiar accident which she sustained a few days ago, when she stooped to pick up a basket filled with straw, and a dry straw or weed penetrated the right eye.

The eyeball was badly lacerated but it is thought the sight is not damaged. Dr. Hartiner, of Springg Valley, was called and dressed th einjury and Mrs. Laurens is now convalescing nicely.

'DON'T GAMBLE,' MONTE CARLO'S CROUPIERS SAY

Monte Carlo, May 4.—"Don't gamble! You have as much chance to win as the pigeons at the live pigeon shoot down on the terrace have to escape with their lives."

There is no "system," no way of beating the house in the long run, no way of predicting when or how often the little ball is going to flop into any certain number on the whirling red and black disk, a score of croupiers questioned by International News Service agreed. All were emphatic also in saying that if they were not working in the Casino they would never think of risking even five francs at such a game, in which luck is the only winning factor.

"You always lose in the end," one croupier twenty years in the service declared. "There is no system, but if you happen to be lucky enough to win at the start quit immediately. If you keep on playing you are bound to lose."

Another croupier adviser that taking a walk or going to bed would be much more profitable than gambling in the Casino.

But in spite of the advice of these veterans, recognized as sound by almost every person who plays, the roulette tables are constantly crowded with persons—men and women, young and old—all eager to have the croupiers place their chips on what they believe are their lucky numbers.

The devices for picking lucky numbers are ingenious, according to the croupiers.

Many players start by betting on the number or numbers represented by their coat checks. Others have numbers which they believe are particularly lucky for them and which they always play.

One American actress always plays three numbers, six, eight and twenty-eight—the first because she was born on the sixth of January, the second because she was married on the eighth of March a year ago and the third because she is twenty-eight years old. And she is certain that her only chance to make a big winning is on one of those three numbers.

WAR HERO IS SENT BACK-UNDESIRABLE

Cleveland, O., May 4.—James Walton, a British war hero, three times the recipient of decorations for bravery in action was one of a number of "undesirable aliens" on board a "deportation special" which left Cleveland this morning.

Walton, a British subject, lived in Akron before the war, but returned home, enlisted and distinguished himself. Shell shocked in 1917, he was discharged receiving decorations from the British, French and Belgian governments for his gallantry. He returned to the United States but as a result of his war service has become subject to attacks and has lost a dozen or more jobs. These attacks, physicians says, are a direct result of his war service.

Styles BY LENORE

One of the most important features which distinguishes French creations is the skill and ingenuity of the details. A collar to a Frenchwoman is not just a collar, necessary for the completion of the neck. A ribbon bow is not just a tied piece of ribbon. A pocket is not just a pocket for purposes of utility. In Paris a dressmaker will spend hours on the creation of an original detail.

tailleur a pouch pocket, embroidered is projected through a slash and hangs below the line of the coat. On another model the pocket, also embroidered, is set on separately with buttons.

Another embroidered pocket of oblong shape is slashed through the center. On a silk crepe frock the pleated panels on each side of the skirt for the pockets, and on a dark red cloth dress there is a beige colored semicircular satin pocket sewed on with fagotting, the disc completed with another half circle of the silk above the pocket.

If I were to ask every one of my Readers, face to face, the question, "What fancy work do you do?" I have no doubt that a good percentage of them would reply: "Fancy work? My fancy work is mending my husband's sock's! Or letting down my little girl's dresses! I have no time for unnecessary handiwork! I'm simply rushed to death every minute."

And I know that this is true. Few busy housekeepers have time for "pretty" work. It is hard to find time to knit, crochet, embroider, make rag rugs or sew on a new table runner or pillow top.

Yet often the busiest housekeepers are the very ones who need this moment of relaxation from their sterner duties. A half hour on their front porch in Summer, sewing on a new bureau scarf or appliqued bedspread, would give their taunt nerves a rest and would send them back to their cooking and dish washing and cleaning with renewed vigor.

Then, there is another side to fancy work—the social side. I do not mean that word in the fashionable sense; I mean it in the neighborly sense. If we do any kind of fancy work, other women who do fancy work are drawn to us. The common interest wields acquaintanceship into friendship. I know of an instance of this truth right among my own friends.

Mrs. X had lived in a community for five years without making a real friend. Last Summer she suddenly became interested in crocheting. She bought a book of directions and began making herself a sweater. Instantly Mrs. Z, who lived across the street, was interested. Mrs. Z inquired at once about the stitch she was using, the nature of the garment, and the book of directions. A week later Mrs. Z and Mrs. X formed the habit of crocheting together whenever they could snatch a few moments from their work. Then other women on the street joined them with their handiwork. And by the end of the Summer they had practically a Fancy Work Club.

We women, in our anxiety to be thorough housekeepers, sometimes lose sight of the fact that we have a right to a little social life, as well as our daughters and our sons and the other members of our family. Not necessarily "social life" which embraces card parties and afternoon teas; but just the simple, neighborly sociability that every woman needs to keep her cheerful and happy and normal. If you have let your household duties crowd this sociability out of your life, why not take up fancy work this Summer and keep in touch with other women who enjoy this delightful diversion?

A PURITAN WIFE

By Jane Phelps

CHAPTER LXXI

Ann waited for them. Twice she went in to Hugh, but remained but a few moments each time. His keen eyes noted her misery, and she was in no mood for talking of it.

It was over an hour later that Dick and Grace came in, face flushed, her eyes bright. Dick did not look at Ann, but said:

"Run along to your bunk now, Grace. I hope you sleep well."

"Oh, I shall, never fear! Good-night, all," and Ann and Dick were left alone.

Ann rose and went about as she always did, seeing that everything was right for the night. Then she went to bed at once. Dick, in spite of his seeming anxiety to retire, did not come until long afterward. Ann pretended to be asleep. She thought he had waited purposely, thinking she might talk.

In the morning, before he dressed, he tapped on the living room door.

"Time to get up Grace, if you are to have breakfast with me," he called. She answered sleepily, and Ann, fearful she would say something for which she would be sorry, maintained her silence until she was dressed, hurried into the kitchen.

"Miss Edmunds will have breakfast this morning. Set another place, Nora." Heretofore when Grace had been with them she never got up for breakfast, declaring it was heathenish to eat so early.

Grimbiingly, Nora obeyed.

And grumblingly Grace appeared. It was outrageous for people to get up in the middle of the night; she was sure she couldn't eat a thing!

"I expect I'll be coming in during the morning for a bite," she said as she sipped her coffee. "I wouldn't get up at this unearthly hour for anyone in the world but you, Dicky," sse said. "Do give me some more coffee, Ann, I'm not half awake yet."

Ann rang for Nora, gave her the pot and told her to fill it. As Nora passed Grace, she held up her cup.

"You fill it," she said.

There was a scream, the sound of a falling pot, and then Dick grabbed Grace, still screaming, and swore at Nora for her carelessness. The entire scalding contents of the pot had fallen into Grace's lap and on her arm.

Quickly Ann got oil and bandages, while Dick carried the screaming girl into the living room and laid her on the couch, still just as she had left it.

"She did it on purpose," Grace declared, moaning. "She has never liked me. She did it on purpose!"

"Nonsense! It was an accident," Ann said, as she deftly undressed Grace to ascertain the extent of her burns. She was painfully, although not severely scalded. Ann dressed her burns, then left her. In the kitchen she cautioned Nora to be more careful in the future, almost sure it had been no accident, but unwilling to admit it.

"She won't be out in the orchard makin' love to him this day," Nora muttered. "She's no good, and she might as well got used to burnin."

All day Grace twisted and moaned. When Dick came in to luncheon she insisted he must stay with her.

"I can't stand it here alone, Dick," she said, "and Ann is with Hugh. Of course I couldn't expect her to neglect him for me." Not a word of gratefulness for Ann's care, neither did she know that Ann had been with Hugh.

Doctor Grayson came over and assured her she would be all right in a day or two. But she made much of her pain, and told him Ann should discharge Nora. She had already told Dick she was not safe to have around Jack. Dick had spoken to Ann, telling her in blunt fashion to let that clumsy girl at once.

"Will you cook the meals and wait upon your guest?" Ann had returned quietly. "I surely shall not. Nora is a very good girl, devoted to us and to Jack. She had an accident, but that is no reason I should discharge her." And Dick had said no more.

But Ann noticed that Nora sang over her work as she had not sung in weeks, and as she watched her was positive her first impression had been right. It was no accident.

Grace demanded much waiting upon that night, and Ann compelled Nora to attend her. It should be her punishment. But a shocked as she was at the action, Ann couldn't help feeling glad that she had so devoted a girl with her—a servant who resented Grace's presence in the house.

Once again Ann called Ned and told him he would have to take Grace home. The morning after she was burned he came, and, although Grace protested, he took her home with him.
